

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF MISSISSIPPI, NORTHERN DIVISION

Efren Angulo Luango v. Warden Childress

Luango · No. 3:25-CV-70-DPJ-ASH · Decided December 31, 2025

SUMMARY

A United States Magistrate Judge recommends dismissing without prejudice Efren Angulo-Luango's 28 U.S.C. § 2241 petition challenging the Bureau of Prisons' denial of First Step Act time credits. The recommendation concludes that he failed to exhaust the Bureau of Prisons' administrative-remedy process and did not establish grounds to excuse exhaustion. It also notes that any challenge to an immigration removal order would fall outside the district court's subject-matter jurisdiction.

OPINION

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF MISSISSIPPI NORTHERN DIVISION EFREN ANGULO LUANGO PETITIONER V. CIVIL ACTION NO. 3:25-CV-70-DPJ-ASH WARDEN CHILDRESS RESPONDENT REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION Pro se Petitioner Efren Angulo-Luango, a prisoner incarcerated at the Federal Correctional Complex in Yazoo City, Mississippi, filed this habeas petition under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 challenging the Bureau of Prisons' denial of jail time credits under the First Step Act.

As explained below, the undersigned recommends the petition be dismissed without prejudice for failure to exhaust. I. Facts and Procedural History Angulo-Luango is presently serving a 175-month total term of incarceration for conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute a controlled substance on board a vessel subject to the jurisdiction of the United States and a violation of a previously imposed term of supervised release.

He says he has "accrued many days of program participation that should have earned him time credits" under the FSA but the BOP has disallowed those credits. Pet. [1] at 2. He asks the Court to "order B.O.P. to grant [him his] hard earned [time credits] towards a reduction of [his] sentence of 365 days." Am. Pet.

[4] at 7. Respondent opposes Angulo-Luango's petition, arguing that he failed to exhaust and his petition fails on the merits. II. Analysis "The BOP is responsible for calculating sentencing credit, and the proper vehicle for raising... a challenge [to that calculation] is a petition pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2241." United States v. Sonsteng, No. 2:17-539, 2021 WL 2380054, at *1 (S.D.

Tex. June 9, 2021) (citing Pack v. Yusuff, 218 F.3d 448, 451 (5th Cir. 2000)). Before filing a § 2241 petition, "[a] federal prisoner seeking credit on his sentence... 'must first exhaust his administrative remedies through the” BOP. Castano v. Everhart, 235 F. App’x 206, 207 (5th Cir. 2007) (quoting United States v. Gabor, 905 F.2d 76, 78 n.2 (5th Cir. 1990)).

The BOP’s regulations provide for a multiple-step Administrative Remedy Program that “allow[s] an inmate to seek formal review of an issue relating to any aspect of his/her own confinement.” 28 C.F.R. § 542.10; see generally id. §§ 542.10–542.19 (Subpart B, Administrative Remedy Program).

To begin the process, “an inmate shall first present an issue of concern informally to staff.” Id. § 542.13. If informal resolution does not address the inmate’s concerns, within “20 calendar days following the date on which the basis for the Request occurred,” the inmate must file “a formal written Administrative Remedy Request, on the appropriate form (BP-9).” Id. § 542.14(a).

Once a BP-9 is filed, “response shall be made by the Warden... within 20 calendar days.” Id. Next, “[a]n inmate who is not satisfied with the Warden’s response may submit an Appeal on the appropriate form (BP-10) to the appropriate Regional Director within 20 calendar days of the date the Warden signed the response.” Id. § 542.15(a).

The Regional Director then has 30 calendar days to respond, id. § 542.18, and “[a]n inmate who is not satisfied with the Regional Director’s response may submit an Appeal on the appropriate form (BP-11) to the General Counsel within 30 calendar days of the date the Regional Director signed the response,” id. § 542.15(a).

The General Counsel has 40 calendar days to respond to the BP-11. Id. § 542.18. “The filing of an appeal to the General Counsel ‘is the final administrative appeal.’ 28 C.F.R. § 542.15(a). Upon completing this multi-tiered review process, a federal inmate h[a]s exhausted h[is] administrative remedies for filing a § 2241 petition.” Gayton v. Rivers, No. 3:23- CV-1842-X, 2023 WL 8007387, at *2 (N.D.

Tex. Aug. 24, 2023) (citing Gross, 2009 WL 1675075, at *1), report and recommendation adopted, 2023 WL 8005316 (N.D. Tex. Nov. 17, 2023). “[P]roper exhaustion of administrative remedies is necessary,” and “filing an untimely or otherwise procedurally defective administrative grievance or appeal” will not satisfy the requirement. Woodford v. Ngo, 548 U.S. 81, 83–84 (2006); see also Herrera-Villatoro v. Driver, 269 F. App’x 372 (5th Cir.

2008). The declaration of BOP Paralegal Amy Landers explains that Angulo-Luango has filed no administrative remedies “related to his assertions concerning his FSA eligibility” or about anything else during his incarceration. Landers Decl. [17-1] ¶ 14. And Angulo-Luango admits as much, stating in his Amended Petition that he addressed the FSA-credits issue only through an “informal verbal” complaint to his unit team and explaining that he did not pursue the matter further because he “didn’t think [he] would get any results just as [his] peers with [the] exact same issue have gotten no results.” Am.

Pet. [4] at 2, 3. Thus, Angulo-Luango failed to fully exhaust his administrative remedies. In a response to a Court Order, Angulo-Luango argued that he should be excused from exhausting because it is not required by statute and “would serve no purpose beyond delay.” Resp.

[7] at 1. Angulo-Luango is correct that exhaustion is not required by statute, but courts in the Fifth Circuit nevertheless require federal prisoners to “exhaust ‘administrative remedies before seeking habeas relief... under... § 2241.’” Mayberry v. Pettiford, 74 F. App’x 299, 299 (5th Cir. 2003) (quoting Fuller v. Rich, 11 F.3d 61, 62 (5th Cir. 1994)). And “[t]he fact that it takes time to exhaust administrative remedies d[oes] not excuse [Angulo-Luango] from completing the process.” Jackson v. Harrison, No. 3:22-CV-471-TSL-MTP, 2024 WL 542400, at *2 (S.D.

Miss. Jan. 12, 2024), report and recommendation adopted, 2024 WL 542379 (S.D. Miss. Feb. 9, 2024). Exhaustion may be excused “in extraordinary circumstances” where a petitioner “demonstrate[s] the futility of administrative review.” Overshown v. Upton, 466 F. App’x 361, 361 (5th Cir. 2012) (citing Fuller, 11 F.3d at 62). But “merely conclusory allegations to support [a] claim of futility” will not meet that burden.

Brown v. Young, No. 08-1586, 2009 WL 666945, at *3 (W.D. La. Feb. 3, 2009). In particular, “the mere fact that [Angulo-Luango] believes his administrative review will be denied does not make th[e] remedy futile.” Kennedy v. Berkebile, No. 3:08-CV-2067, 2009 WL 151207, at *2 (N.D. Tex. Jan. 20, 2009) (quoting Herman v. Wendt, No. 3:03-CV-1204, 2004 WL 60818, at *2 (N.D.

Tex. Jan. 13, 2004), report and recommendation adopted, 2004 WL 557290 (N.D. Tex. Feb. 11, 2004)). Simply put, Angulo-Luango was required to exhaust before filing his habeas petition. Because he failed to do so, his petition should be dismissed.<sup>1</sup> III. Conclusion and Recommendation For the foregoing reasons, the undersigned recommends that Angulo-Luango’s petition be dismissed without prejudice for failure to exhaust.

<sup>1</sup> To the extent that Angulo-Luango’s petition could be read to challenge the legality of the August 22, 2016 immigration order of removal entered against him, the Court lacks subject-matter jurisdiction to consider such a challenge. See Duarte v. Mayorkas, 27 F.4th 1044, 1054–55 (5th Cir. 2022) (“‘When a claim by an alien, however it is framed, challenges the procedure and substance of an agency determination that is inextricably linked to the order of removal,’ the federal district court lacks subject-matter jurisdiction.” (quoting Martinez v. Napolitano, 704 F.3d 620, 623 (9th Cir.
