QUESTIONS PRESENTED

- Whether the district clerk should investigate and report the status of Leggett's article 11.07 writ applications or forward the required writ materials to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“After you have had an opportunity to check into this matter, please advise this Court of the status of the application or forward a transcript containing the documents described in 11.07, §§ 2(c) or 2(d).”

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Leggett stated that he had filed two writ applications under article 11.07 of the Texas Code of Criminal Procedure. He represented that the writs challenged matters other than his convictions and that the district clerk had taken no action for 35 days. The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals checked its records and found that the writs were not then pending before it.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Jeff Leggett advised the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals that he had filed two article 11.07 writs with the 119th District Court and that 35 days had elapsed without action. The Court's staff attorney informed the district court clerk that the Court's records did not show the writs as pending and requested that the clerk investigate and report the status or forward the required transcript materials.
