QUESTIONS PRESENTED

- Whether the appellant's voluntary motion to dismiss the appeal should be granted under Texas Rule of Appellate Procedure 42.1(a)(1).

HOLDINGS

1. A voluntary motion to dismiss an appeal filed before the court has issued a decision may be granted under Texas Rule of Appellate Procedure 42.1(a)(1); the court therefore dismissed the appeal.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“The motion is voluntarily made by the appellant prior to any decision of this Court.”

“We grant the motion and dismiss the appeal.”

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The opinion contains no substantive underlying facts. The relevant procedural fact is that appellant voluntarily moved to dismiss its appeal before the appellate court made any decision, and no other party filed a notice of appeal.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Doolytle USA, LLC appealed from the 284th District Court of Montgomery County, Texas, in Trial Cause No. 14-07-07909-CV. Before the Court of Appeals issued a decision, Doolytle filed a motion to dismiss the appeal, and no other party filed a notice of appeal. The court granted the motion and dismissed the appeal.
