

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF VERMONT

Ken Ejimofor Ezeah v. Tracy Renaud and Jennifer B. Higgins

Ezeah · No. 2:25-cv-105 · Decided December 8, 2025

SUMMARY

The United States District Court for the District of Vermont dismissed without prejudice a mandamus action seeking adjudication of pending VAWA and U-visa petitions. Because USCIS had denied the petitions and the plaintiff's requests for reconsideration were pending, the court concluded that no present relief remained available under the mandamus or Administrative Procedure Act theories. The court granted defendants' motion to dismiss and noted that a new action could be filed if reconsideration were granted and an unreasonable delay subsequently occurred.

OPINION

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF VERMONT
CLERK KEN EJIMOFOR EZEAH,) B Ve) DEPUTY CLERK Plaintiff,)) Vv.)
Case No. 2:25-cv-105) TRACY RENAUD, Vermont Service Center) Director, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration) Services, and JENNIFER B. HIGGINS,) Director, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration) Services,)) Defendants.) ORDER OF DISMISSAL (Doc.

14) In January 2025, plaintiff Ken Ejimofor Ezeah filed this mandamus action seeking an order requiring the Government defendants to adjudicate his pending immigration petitions. He complained that U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) had delayed in issuing a final ruling on his self-petition under the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), Pub. L. No. 103-322, 108 Stat. 1903 (1994), As amended, VAWA provides expedited approval for abused non-citizen spouses.

See 8 U.S.C. § 1154. Mr. Ezeah also applied for temporary relief under the “U-visa” procedures available to qualifying crime victims. (See Doc. 1.) In August 2025, USCIS denied both the VAWA and U-visa petitions. (See Docs. 14-1, 14-2.) Plaintiff has filed for administrative reconsideration of these rulings through the USCIS review process. His requests for reconsideration are currently pending.

Defendants seek dismissal on standing grounds because there is no relief that the court can issue to Plaintiff. Plaintiff responds that if USCIS grants reconsideration and reopens either the VAWA or the U-visa cases, he will still be facing delay for which the Administrative Procedure Act (APA), 5 U.S.C. §§ 701-706, provides a remedy.

The court agrees with the Government. Relief under the APA is procedural in nature and in cases like this one addresses claims of delay and failure to act. The Government has acted in this case and the plaintiff has sought additional relief under the reconsideration procedure. There is no basis today for an order from the court instructing USCIS to “hurry up and act.” The agency has addressed—and continues to address—the plaintiffs claims under the immigration law.

See Chen v. United States Citizenship & Immigr. Servs., No. 23-CV-8188, 2024 WL 5182154, at *3 (E.D.N.Y. Dec. 20, 2024) (“[C]ourts routinely find mandamus actions moot when the government denies the application that the petitioner sought to be adjudicated.” (alteration in original; quoting Yang v. Mayorkas, No. 23-CV-7756, 2024 WL 4574143, at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Oct.

23, 2024))). The dismissal is WITHOUT PREJUDICE. In the event reconsideration is granted and Plaintiff alleges a new period of unreasonable delay, he can file a new complaint under the APA. Conclusion The court GRANTS the motion to dismiss (Doc. 14). Dismissal is without prejudice. Dated at Burlington, in the District of Vermont, this Racor Geoffrey W. Crawford, Judge United States District Court