

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, APPELLATE DIVISION, SECOND JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT

Sainplice v. Tuizer

Sainplice, 2025 NY Slip Op 06744 (Supreme Court of the State of New York Appellate Division Second Judicial Department 2025) · No. 2023-09866 · Decided December 3, 2025

SUMMARY

The Appellate Division, Second Department modified an order denying the plaintiff leave to amend the complaint to add Hi Rise Supply Corp., HR Steel, Inc., and Levi Hirschfeld as defendants. The court held that the relation-back doctrine applied to those proposed defendants and that delay alone did not preclude amendment, but affirmed denial of leave to add Rafi Twizar because the plaintiff failed to establish the required relation-back elements and relied on speculation regarding his involvement.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the plaintiff established the relation-back doctrine's requirements for adding Hi Rise Supply Corp., HR Steel, Inc., and Levi Hirschfeld as defendants after expiration of the statute of limitations.
2. Whether the plaintiff established the relation-back doctrine's requirements for adding Rafi Twizar as a defendant.
3. Whether delay, without demonstrated prejudice or surprise, justified denying leave to amend under CPLR 3025(b).

HOLDINGS

1. The plaintiff demonstrated the applicability of the relation-back doctrine and was entitled to amend the complaint to add Hi Rise Supply Corp., HR Steel, Inc., and Levi Hirschfeld as defendants.
2. Delay alone did not preclude amendment; denial based solely on the passage of time was improper absent significant prejudice or surprise.
3. The plaintiff failed to establish the relation-back doctrine's second and third prongs as to Rafi Twizar, so leave to amend to add him as a defendant was properly denied.

KEY QUOTATIONS

*“Motions for leave to amend pleadings should be freely granted, absent prejudice or surprise directly resulting from the delay in seeking leave, unless the proposed amendment is palpably insufficient or patently devoid of merit” (1)

*“Delay alone is insufficient to bar an amendment to the pleading; it must be lateness coupled with significant prejudice to the other side” (1)

*“A plaintiff may establish the applicability of the relation-back doctrine by demonstrating that (1) the causes of action arose out of the same conduct, transaction, or occurrence; (2) the new party is united in interest with one or more of the original defendants, and by reason of that relationship can be charged with such notice of the institution of the action that he or she will not be prejudiced in maintaining his or her defense on the merits; and (3) the new defendant knew or should have known that, but for a mistake by the plaintiff as to the identity of the proper parties, the action would have been commenced against him or her as well” (1)

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

On December 13, 2015, Samuel Sainplice was allegedly injured when the side mirror of a pickup truck struck him while he was riding a bicycle in Brooklyn. He initially sued Amram Tuizer, alleged to have operated the truck, and Hi Rise Steel, Inc., alleged to have owned it. After the statute of limitations had expired, he sought to add entities and an individual allegedly connected with ownership, control, maintenance, or operation of the truck.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Sainplice commenced a personal-injury action in July 2016 against Amram Tuizer and Hi Rise Steel, Inc. In December 2022, he moved to amend the complaint to add Rafi Twizar, Hi Rise Supply Corp., HR Steel, Inc., and Levi Hirschfeld. The Supreme Court denied the motion, and the Appellate Division modified the order by granting leave to add Hi Rise Supply, HR Steel, and Hirschfeld while affirming denial of leave as to Rafi.
