

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF MINNESOTA

Ronal Avidai Ruano Flores v. Pamela Bondi, Attorney General, et al.

No. 0:26-CV-1678 (D. Minn. Mar. 2, 2026) · No. 0:26-CV-1678 · Decided March 2, 2026

SUMMARY

The United States District Court for the District of Minnesota granted a detained noncitizen’s petition for a writ of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2241. The court ordered the government to return the petitioner to Minnesota if necessary, release the petitioner without new conditions, return seized personal property, and file a compliance report, concluding that the government had not shown the existence of an administrative warrant supporting detention.

CASE DETAILS

COURT	United States District Court for the District of Minnesota
WRITING FOR THE COURT	John M. Gerrard
JURISDICTION	United States District Court for the District of Minnesota
DECIDED	March 2, 2026
DOCKET	0:26-CV-1678
DISPOSITION	writ_granted
PROCEDURAL POSTURE	Petitioner sought habeas relief under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 from allegedly unlawful immigration detention and denial of a bond hearing. The court resolved the petition on the briefs without an evidentiary hearing and granted the writ.
STANDARD OF REVIEW	The court considered the petition under the habeas procedures of 28 U.S.C. §§ 2241 and 2243 and resolved the presented legal issues without a hearing.
PRECEDENTIAL VALUE	unpublished

TOPICS

- federal habeas corpus
- immigration detention
- remedies
- civil procedure

PRACTICE AREAS

- immigration
- federal habeas corpus
- immigration detention
- remedies
- civil procedure

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether petitioner was unlawfully detained without a bond hearing under the applicable immigration-detention provisions.
2. Whether the government established that petitioner was arrested pursuant to a warrant triggering detention under 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a).
3. Whether immediate release was an appropriate remedy when the government failed to produce evidence establishing lawful detention.

HOLDINGS

1. The government failed to establish that petitioner was detained pursuant to a warrant or otherwise lawfully detained under the asserted mandatory-detention authority.
2. The petition for a writ of habeas corpus was granted because the government did not establish that petitioner's detention was lawful.

KEY QUOTATIONS

"Habeas corpus" may literally mean "have the body," but in the present context it really means "have the warrant," and all the Court has is hearsay from an unnamed ICE functionary."

"Without it, outright release is the appropriate remedy."

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Petitioner, a noncitizen detained by ICE, challenged the denial of a bond hearing under 8 C.F.R. §§ 236.1(d)(1) and 1236.1(d)(1). The government asserted that the detention was mandatory but did not produce an administrative arrest warrant or other proof establishing the legal basis for detention. The court found that the government had been expressly directed to address whether petitioner was arrested pursuant to a warrant and had failed to do so.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner filed a § 2241 habeas petition challenging ICE detention and the denial of a bond hearing. The government argued that detention was mandatory and that petitioner was ineligible for release. Because the parties' briefing presented only legal issues, the court declined to hold a hearing, granted the petition, ordered immediate release without new conditions, and required a compliance report.

DISPOSITION

writ_granted

REMAND INSTRUCTIONS

The government shall, if necessary, immediately return petitioner to the District of Minnesota; once petitioner is in Minnesota, it shall immediately release petitioner from custody with no new conditions, return any personal property seized at detention, and file a status report certifying compliance by March 4, 2026.

CASES CITED

- Velasco Hurtado v. Bondi, No. 0:26-CV-546, 2026 WL 184884 (D. Minn. Jan. 24, 2026)
- Ahmed M. v. Bondi, No. 25-CV-4711, 2026 WL 25627, at *3 (D. Minn. Jan. 5, 2026)
- Fontenot v. Crow, 4 F.4th 982, 1058 (10th Cir. 2021)
- Gladden v. Gidley, 337 F.2d 575, 578 (9th Cir. 1964)
- Walker v. Johnston, 312 U.S. 275 (1941)

OPINION

IN TFHOER UTHNEIT DEIDS TSRTAICTTE SO FD IMSITNRNICETS OCTOAU RT RONAL AVIDAI RUANO FLORES, Petitioner, 0:26-CV-1678 vs. MEMORANDUM AND ORDER GRANTING PETITION FOR WRIT PAMELA BONDI, Attorney General, OF HABEAS CORPUS et al., Respondents.

The petitioner is a noncitizen currently detained by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), seeking a writ of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2241. The petitioner contends their detention is unlawful due to denial of a bond hearing pursuant to 8 C.F.R. §§ 236.1(d)(1) and 1236.1(d)(1). See filing 1.

The government responds that detention is mandatory, not discretionary, and the petitioner is not eligible to be released. See filing 6. The briefing demonstrates that the petitioner's application for the writ only presents issues of law—and the government does not dispute this point, see filing 6 at 2—so the Court declines to hold a hearing. See § 2243.

The Court will grant the petition for the reasons thoroughly articulated by this Court in Velasco Hurtado v. Bondi, No. 0:26-CV-546, 2026 WL 184884 (D. Minn. Jan. 24, 2026). The government shall immediately—if necessary—return the petitioner to the state of Minnesota and release the petitioner from custody.

The government has suggested there may be an administrative warrant for the petitioner's arrest, but that it's unable to produce the warrant at this time. See filing 6 at 1. The existence of a warrant matters, because it's the warrant that triggers 28 U.S.C. § 1226(a). If arrested pursuant to a warrant, the petitioner would be entitled to a bond hearing; if not arrested pursuant to Bondi, 2026 WL 184884, at *6 (citing Ahmed M. v. Bondi, No. 25-CV-4711, 2026 WL 25627, at *3 (D.

Minn. Jan. 5, 2026) (collecting cases)). But nothing has been shown. "Habeas corpus" may literally mean "have the body," but in the present context it really means "have the warrant," and all the Court has is hearsay from an unnamed ICE functionary. What the brief filed by the government's counsel establishes is only that he asked his client for proof that the petitioner was detained lawfully, and his client was unable to provide it to him.

The Court is neither obliged nor inclined to invite a further response, see Fontenot v. Crow, 4 F.4th 982, 1058 (10th Cir. 2021), given that the entire purpose of the return is to set up the facts warranting denial, see Gladden v. Gidley, 337 F.2d 575, 578 (9th Cir. 1964) (citing Walker v. Johnston, 312 U.S. 275 (1941)).

In short, the government was expressly directed to address whether the petitioner was arrested pursuant to a warrant and, if so, to provide a copy of that warrant. See filing 2 at 2. Without it, outright release is the appropriate remedy.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED: 1. The Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus (filing 1) is granted. 2. The government shall, if necessary, immediately return the petitioner to the District of Minnesota. 3. When the petitioner is in Minnesota, the government shall immediately release the petitioner from custody with no new conditions, and shall return any personal property seized from the petitioner when detained.

4. No later than March 4, 2026, the government shall file a status report certifying compliance with this Order. LET JUDGMENT BE ENTERED ACCORDINGLY. Dated this 2nd day of March, 2026. BY T jr COUR: (by Mi. SIOMAAD Johin M. Gerrard Sas ior United States District Judge