

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF MINNESOTA

Ronal Avidai Ruano Flores v. Pamela Bondi, Attorney General, et al.

No. 0:26-CV-1678 (D. Minn. Mar. 2, 2026) · No. 0:26-CV-1678 · Decided March 2, 2026

OPINION

IN TFHOER UTHNEIT DEIDS TSRTAICTTE SO FD IMSITNRNICETS OCTOAU RT RONAL AVIDAI RUANO FLORES, Petitioner, 0:26-CV-1678 vs. MEMORANDUM AND ORDER GRANTING PETITION FOR WRIT PAMELA BONDI, Attorney General, OF HABEAS CORPUS et al., Respondents.

The petitioner is a noncitizen currently detained by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), seeking a writ of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2241. The petitioner contends their detention is unlawful due to denial of a bond hearing pursuant to 8 C.F.R. §§ 236.1(d)(1) and 1236.1(d)(1). See filing 1.

The government responds that detention is mandatory, not discretionary, and the petitioner is not eligible to be released. See filing 6. The briefing demonstrates that the petitioner's application for the writ only presents issues of law—and the government does not dispute this point, see filing 6 at 2—so the Court declines to hold a hearing. See § 2243.

The Court will grant the petition for the reasons thoroughly articulated by this Court in Velasco Hurtado v. Bondi, No. 0:26-CV-546, 2026 WL 184884 (D. Minn. Jan. 24, 2026). The government shall immediately—if necessary—return the petitioner to the state of Minnesota and release the petitioner from custody.

The government has suggested there may be an administrative warrant for the petitioner's arrest, but that it's unable to produce the warrant at this time. See filing 6 at 1. The existence of a warrant matters, because it's the warrant that triggers 28 U.S.C. § 1226(a). If arrested pursuant to a warrant, the petitioner would be entitled to a bond hearing; if not arrested pursuant to Bondi, 2026 WL 184884, at *6 (citing Ahmed M. v. Bondi, No. 25-CV-4711, 2026 WL 25627, at *3 (D.

Minn. Jan. 5, 2026) (collecting cases)). But nothing has been shown. "Habeas corpus" may literally mean "have the body," but in the present context it really means "have the warrant," and all the Court has is hearsay from an unnamed ICE functionary. What the brief filed by the government's counsel establishes is only that he asked his client for proof that the petitioner was detained lawfully, and his client was unable to provide it to him.

The Court is neither obliged nor inclined to invite a further response, see Fontenot v. Crow, 4 F.4th 982, 1058 (10th Cir. 2021), given that the entire purpose of the return is to set up the facts warranting denial, see Gladden v. Gidley, 337 F.2d 575, 578 (9th Cir. 1964) (citing Walker v. Johnston, 312 U.S. 275 (1941)).

In short, the government was expressly directed to address whether the petitioner was arrested pursuant to a warrant and, if so, to provide a copy of that warrant. See filing 2 at 2. Without it, outright release is the appropriate remedy.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED: 1. The Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus (filing 1) is granted. 2. The government shall, if necessary, immediately return the petitioner to the District of Minnesota. 3. When the petitioner is in Minnesota, the government shall immediately release the petitioner from custody with no new conditions, and shall return any personal property seized from the petitioner when detained.

4. No later than March 4, 2026, the government shall file a status report certifying compliance with this Order. LET JUDGMENT BE ENTERED ACCORDINGLY. Dated this 2nd day of March, 2026. BY T jr COUR: (by Mi. SIOMAAD Johin M. Gerrard Sas ior United States District Judge
