

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

Jeremy Holland v. Star Smog and Alignment Haus LLC, et al.

Holland · No. 2:25-cv-10405-WLH-PD · Decided December 3, 2025

SUMMARY

The United States District Court for the Central District of California ordered Plaintiff Jeremy Holland to show cause why the court should exercise supplemental jurisdiction over his California Unruh Civil Rights Act and related state-law claims. The court highlighted California’s heightened pleading requirements and high-frequency litigant provisions for disability-access litigation, and directed Plaintiff and counsel to provide declarations addressing high-frequency-litigant status and to identify the statutory damages sought. The response is due within fourteen days, and failure to respond may result in dismissal of the state-law claims under 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c).

10 11 JEREMY HOLLAND Case No. 2:25-cv-10405-WLH-PD Plaintiff(s), 12 v. 13 ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE STAR SMOG AND ALIGNMENT 14 HAUS LLC, et al. WHY THE COURT SHOULD 15 Defendant(s). EXERCISE 16 SUPPLEMENTAL JURISDICTION OVER THE 17 STATE LAW CLAIMS 18 19 The Complaint filed in this action asserts a claim for injunctive relief arising 20 out of an alleged violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act (the “ADA”) and 21 claim for damages pursuant to California’s Unruh Civil Rights Act (the “Unruh 22 Act”), Cal. Civ.

Code §§ 51-53. In the Complaint, Plaintiff requests the court 23 exercise supplemental jurisdiction over the Unruh Act claim pursuant to 24 28 U.S.C. § 1367. 25 The United States Supreme Court has recognized supplemental jurisdiction 26 “is a doctrine of discretion, not of plaintiff’s right, and that district courts can 27 2 The supplemental jurisdiction statute codifies these principles.

After 3 establishing that supplemental jurisdiction encompasses “other claims” in the same 4 case or controversy as a claim within the district courts’ original jurisdiction, 5 § 1367(a), the statute confirms the discretionary nature of supplemental 6 jurisdiction by enumerating the circumstances in which district courts can refuse 7 its exercise: 8 (c) The district courts may decline to exercise supplemental jurisdiction over a claim under subsection (a) if -- 9 (1) the claim raises a novel or complex issue of State law, 10 (2) the claim substantially predominates over the claim or claims 11 over which the district court has original jurisdiction, 12 (3) the district court has dismissed all claims over which it has 13 original jurisdiction, or 14 (4) in exceptional circumstances, there are other compelling reasons for declining jurisdiction.

15 16 28 U.S.C. § 1367(c). 17 Depending on a host of factors, then -- including the circumstances of the 18 particular case, the nature of the state law claims, the character of the governing 19 state law, and the relationship between the state and federal claims -- district 20 courts may decline to exercise jurisdiction over supplemental state law claims. 21 The statute thereby reflects the understanding that, when deciding whether to 22 exercise supplemental jurisdiction, “a federal court should consider and weigh 23 in each case, and at every stage of the litigation, the values of judicial economy, 24 convenience, fairness, and comity.” Id. at 173 (quoting Carnegie-Mellon Univ.

Cal. Code Civ. Proc. 4 § 425.50.

The stricter pleading standard requires a plaintiff bringing construction- 5 access claims¹ to file a verified complaint alleging specific facts concerning the 6 plaintiff’s claim, including the specific barriers encountered or how the plaintiff 7 was deterred and each date on which the plaintiff encountered each barrier or 8 was deterred. See id. § 425.50(a).

California also imposed a “high-frequency 9 litigant fee” in 2015 in response to the “special and unique circumstances” 10 presented by certain plaintiffs and law firms filing an outsized number of Unruh 11 Act lawsuits. Cal. Gov’t Code § 70616.5. 12 In recognition of California’s efforts to reduce the abuse of California’s 13 disability access laws, district courts within the state have determined that the 14 interests of fairness and comity counsel against exercising supplemental jurisdiction 15 over construction-access claims brought under the Unruh Act.

See, e.g., Schutz 16 v. Cuddeback 262 F. Supp. 3d 1025, 1031 (S.D. Cal. 2017) (“[T]he Court finds it 17 would be improper to allow Plaintiff [a high frequency litigant] to use federal court 18 as an end-around to California’s pleading requirements.
