QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the court should compel the court reporter to file the overdue reporter's record or verify in writing that the record had not been requested.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“Accordingly, this Court ORDERS Court Reporter Pamela Sumler to file either (1) the reporter's record, or (2) written verification that the reporter's record has not been requested within TEN DAYS.” (Order)

“We expressly CAUTION Pamela Sumler that failure to comply with this order may result in an order that she not sit as a court reporter until she complies.” (Order)

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The reporter's record had not been filed in the appeal. The court of appeals had notified Court Reporter Pamela Sumler by postcards dated April 17, 2013, and January 21, 2014, that the record was overdue and had directed her to file it within thirty days. The court reporter had neither filed the record nor corresponded with the court regarding its status.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The matter was on appeal from the 305th Judicial District Court of Dallas County, Texas, trial court cause number JD-77361-X. After notifying the court reporter twice that the reporter's record was overdue and directing its filing within thirty days, the court of appeals issued this order requiring the reporter either to file the record or provide written verification that it had not been requested.
