QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether Appellee should receive a second extension of time to file her appellate brief until March 30, 2014.

HOLDINGS

1. The motion for extension of time was granted in part, and Appellee's brief was required to be filed no later than March 14, 2014.
2. If Appellee failed to file the brief by March 14, 2014, the court would set the appeal for submission without an appellee's brief.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“NO FURTHER EXTENSIONS OF TIME TO FILE APPELLEE’S BRIEF WILL BE GRANTED.”

“If Appellee fails to file the brief by March 14, 2014, the court will set the appeal for submission without an Appellee’s brief.”

“In a civil case, the court will accept as true the facts stated [in appellant’s brief] unless another party contradicts them.”

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Appellee's appellate brief was originally due on January 13, 2014. The court granted a first extension until February 12, 2014, and Appellee then filed an unopposed second motion seeking an extension until March 30, 2014, which would have resulted in a total extension of seventy-four days.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The appeal was taken from the 49th Judicial District Court of Zapata County, Texas, in Trial Court No. 8,248. Appellee's brief was initially due January 13, 2014; the court previously extended the deadline to February 12, 2014. The court granted Appellee's second motion only in part, extending the deadline to March 14, 2014 rather than March 30, 2014.
