QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the court should temporarily stay the district court's March 31, 2021 production order while considering the mandamus petition.
2. Whether the relator should be permitted to file the four disputed documents under seal for in camera review.

HOLDINGS

1. The court granted the relator's motion for a temporary stay and stayed the March 31, 2021 order until further order of the court or final resolution of the original proceeding.
2. The court permitted the relator to file the four identified documents under seal for in camera review and authorized the relator to request that the district clerk file them under seal if e-filing was not possible.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“We grant the motion and order that the March 31, 2021 order is stayed until further order of this court or final resolution of this original proceeding.” (1)

“We grant the motion and order that Relator may file documents numbered 453414–453414, 455073–455073, 455118–455118, and 876725–876725 under seal.” (1)

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The underlying dispute concerned whether four documents were protected by privilege. The assigned district judge ruled on December 21, 2020, that the documents were not privileged, later denied reconsideration, and ordered Dancar Energy Construction, LLC to produce them by April 7, 2021. The relator sought mandamus relief and in camera appellate review of the documents.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Dancar Energy Construction, LLC petitioned for a writ of mandamus seeking to vacate portions of a December 21, 2020 order declaring four documents nonprivileged and a March 31, 2021 order denying reconsideration and requiring production by April 7, 2021. The relator also moved for a temporary stay and for permission to file the four documents under seal for in camera review. The court granted both motions but did not finally resolve the mandamus petition in this order.
