CALIFORNIA

Mel Marin v. Michael Koch

Marin v. Koch · No. 24-CV-1564 JLS (BLM) · Decided June 27, 2025

SUMMARY

The United States District Court for the Southern District of California dismissed Mel Marin’s appeal from a bankruptcy court order denying reconsideration of the dismissal of Jordana Bauman’s Chapter 13 case. The court held that Marin lacked Article III standing and was not sufficiently aggrieved because his asserted interests in the subject property were unsupported and conjectural. The court denied the appellee’s motion to strike as moot and granted the trustee’s motion to substitute attorney.

21 (ECF Nos. 37, 46) 22 23 Appellant Mel Marin (“Appellant” or “Marin”) appeals pro se from the U.S. 24 Bankruptcy Court for the District of Southern California's ("Bankruptcy Court") Order 25 Denying Debtor Jordana Bauman's ("Debtor" or "Bauman") Motion for Reconsideration 26 of its Dismissal Order ("Bankruptcy Order"). ECF No. 1 ("Notice of Appeal"). Appellant 27 here is the Debtor's brother, who asserts a claim as a creditor of his sister's property. See 28 Notice of Appeal at 1. 1 Before the Court are Appellant Marin's Opening Brief ("Marin Br.," ECF No. 42),

2 Chapter 13 Trustee, Appellee Michael Koch's Response Brief ("Trustee Br.," ECF No. 43), 3 and Appellant Marin's Reply Brief ("Reply Br.," ECF No. 45). Also before the Court are 4 Marin's Record on Appeal ("ROA," ECF Nos. 35-1 through 35-88, 41-1), and Appellee 5 Michael Koch's ("Trustee") Motion to Strike Appellant's Designation of Record on 6 Appeal, Index of Record on Appeal, and Motion to Strike Issues to Be Raised on Orders 7 Which Were Not Appealed and are Time Barred ("MTS," ECF No. 37). Marin did not file 8 an opposition to such Motion. See generally Docket. 9 Having carefully considered the underlying record, the Parties' arguments, and the 10 relevant law, the Court DISMISSES Appellant Marin's appeal for lack of standing.¹

11 BACKGROUND

12 Debtor Bauman initiated the underlying Chapter 13 bankruptcy proceeding in 13 bankruptcy court on April 9, 2024. In re Jordana Bauman, No. 24-1264-CL13 14 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. June 3, 2024), Dkt. No. 1.2 Relevant to this appeal, the Court notes the 15 following actions that took place in those proceedings. 16 Appellant Marin first entered the bankruptcy matter by filing an amicus brief on

17 April 23, 2024, in support of a motion his sister had filed. See ROA, ECF No. 35-29. Next, 18 Marin filed a motion for declaratory judgment to remove the Trustee from the matter. Id., 19 ECF No. 35-30. In that motion, Marin asserted he had standing to participate in the matter 20 either as an owner or a "contingent creditor" of the property at issue: 2410 Albatross Street, 21 22 1 The Trustee's Motion to Strike argues that Marin's designated Record on Appeal is not relevant to the Order being appealed in the underlying bankruptcy case, and that the issues raised are time barred. See 23 generally MTS. As the Court does not reach the merits of Appellant Marin's appeal, the Court DENIES 24 the Trustee's Motion to Strike as MOOT (ECF No. 37) and considers Marin's Record on Appeal where relevant to the Court's consideration of standing, and otherwise appropriate. 25 2 The Court takes judicial notice of the underlying bankruptcy records pursuant to Federal Rule of

26 Evidence 201 to the extent such records are not included in Marin's Record on Appeal. See In re Khan,

1 Unit 12, San Diego, CA 92101 (“Albatross Property”). Id at 1. On May 17, 2024, Marin
2 filed an opposition to John Bahr’s motion to lift the automatic stay.³ ROA, ECF No. 35- 3 42.
On May 29, 2024, the Bankruptcy Court granted the Trustee’s motion to lift the stay. 4 ROA, ECF No. 35-47. Bauman and Marin also filed together an opposition to the Trustee’s 5 motion to dismiss. ROA, ECF No. 35-43. 6 In the May 29, 2024 hearing on the Trustee’s motion to dismiss, the court rejected 7 Marin’s argument he was a “co-movant,” stating “I think that you’re an attorney attempting 8 inappropriately to practice law on your sister’s behalf . . . I’m not going to credit your 9 papers.” ROA, ECF No. 35-49 at 10:4–8. On June 3, 2024, the Bankruptcy Court granted 10 the Trustee’s motion and dismissed the case. ROA, ECF No. 35-48. 11 After the dismissal, on June 10, 2024, Bauman and Marin filed a motion for 12 reconsideration of the dismissal order and order lifting the automatic stay, along with other 13 filings, including Marin’s filing, “Brother’s Suggestion of Recusal.” ROA, ECF Nos. 35- 14 54, 55, 56, 58. On August 20, 2024, the Bankruptcy Court denied the motion for 15 reconsideration. ROA, ECF No. 35-72. The Bankruptcy Court held that Debtor’s 16 arguments fell short of Rule 59’s standard and denied the reconsideration request in its 17 entirety as follows: 18 The court has considered its dismissal order (ECF No. 59), Debtor’s motion to reconsider and accompanying filings (ECF 19 Nos. 64, 65, 66, 67 & 68), the Trustee’s opposition (ECF No. 76), 20 Creditor John Bahr’s opposition and joinder in opposition (ECF Nos. 78 & 80), Debtor’s replies (ECF Nos. 86 & 87), oral 21 argument at the August 7, 2024 hearing, and its own docket. For 22 the following reasons, the court denies the reconsideration request. 23 On June 3, 2024, the court granted Creditor’s stay relief 24 motion, dismissed Debtor’s bankruptcy case, and imposed a four-year re-filing bar (ECF No. 59). Debtor moved for 25 reconsider[ation] on June 14, 2024 (ECF No. 64). 26 “When a party files a motion (9th Cir. 2001)). Since Debtor sought 5 reconsideration within 14 days of the entry of judgment, the court analyzes her argument under Rule 59 (see ECF Nos. 59, 64, 65, 6 67 & 68).

7 Rule 59(e)—made applicable here through Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9023—permits the court to reconsider 8 and amend a previous order if:
“(1) the district court is presented 9 with newly discovered evidence, (2) the district court committed clear error or made an initial decision that was manifestly unjust, 10 or (3) there is an intervening change in controlling law.” Ybarra 11 v. McDaniel, 656 F.3d 984, 998 (9th Cir. 2011) FED. R. BANKR. P. 8002(b)(2) (providing that a notice of appeal becomes effective 14 after the court disposes of an earlier-filed reconsideration 15 motion). “Although Civil Rule 59(e) permits a court to reconsider 16 and amend a previous order, ‘the rule offers an extraordinary 17 remedy, to be used sparingly in the interests of finality and conservation of judicial resources.’” In re Hooper, BAP Nos. 18 CC-11-1269-PaMkCa, CC-11-1272-PaMkCa, 2012 WL 19 603766, at *9 (B.A.P. 9th Cir. Feb. 14, 2012) (quoting Kona Enters., Inc. v. Est. of Bishop, 229 F.3d. 229 F.3d. 887, 890 (9th Cir. 2000)). 21 Debtor fails to identify any previously existing evidence that was not reasonably discoverable before the June 3, 2024 22 judgment. Instead, her contentions regarding due process 23 violations, court sabotage, and other arguments rely upon evidence that the court already considered (ECF Nos. 64 & 65). 24 Further, while Debtor dislikes the court’s decisions, she 25 identifies no clear error or manifest injustice. At best, her arguments are mere doubts or disagreement[s],[] which will not 26 suffice under Rule 59(e). [See] Bey v. Malec, No. 18-CV-02626- 27 SI, 2020 WL 3058336, at *2 (N.D. Cal. June 9, 2020) (cleaned up). And the court’s dismissal is well-supported by Debtor’s 28 1 lNenog. 5th9y) .b ankruptcy history and abusive litigation conduct (ECF 2 Nor does Debtor cite any new controlling authority. She 3 contends In re Leavitt, 171 F.3d 1219 (9th Cir. 1999) the standard for bad faith is bad law and relies on In re Blendheim, 803 F.3d 4 477 (9th Cir. 2015). Yet In re Blendheim does not overturn In re 5 Leavitt. And regardless, In re Blendheim was on the books long before the court entered judgment on June 3, 2024. 6 Debtor’s arguments fall short of Rule 59’s standard. And 7 her motion is unsupported by law or fact. Accordingly, the court denies the reconsideration request in its entirety. 8 IT IS SO ORDERED. 9 Id. 10 On September 4, 2024, Marin initiated his appeal in this Court; in particular, 11 appealing the August 20, 2024 order denying the motion for reconsideration. ECF No. 1-2. 12 Marin subsequently filed a Motion for Extension of Time to File Requests to Proceed in 13 Forma Pauperis (“IFP”), followed by his Motion for Leave to Proceed IFP. ECF Nos. 7, 14 8. Then, on October 21, 2024, Marin filed Emergency Motions to Stay Pending Appeal 15 and to Stay the State Court Action. ECF Nos. 11, 12. In one of such Emergency Motions, 16 Marin contended that he has standing because he is the title holder of his sister, Debtor 17 Bauman’s property, to which he attached a document titled “Grant Deed” purporting to 18 show a sale of the Albatross Property “for consideration of $1.00 dollar.” ECF

19 No. 11-5 at Exhibit F.

20 The case, originally assigned to Judge James E. Simmons, was subsequently 21 transferred to this Court. ECF No. 14. On October 31, 2024, the Court granted Marin’s 22 Motion for Leave to Proceed IFP but denied his Emergency Motions.4 ECF No. 15. The 23 Court subsequently directed Marin to perfect the record as required by Federal Rule of 24 Bankruptcy Procedure 8009, which was completed after several attempts, see ECF Nos. 23, 25 31, 36. The Trustee then moved to strike Marin’s Designation of the Record, see MTS, 26 27 28 4 The Court also denied Debtor Jordana Bauman’s Motion for Leave to Proceed IFP (ECF No. 9) as moot 1 and the Court set a briefing schedule for the appeal. ECF No. 38. In its Order, the Court 2 directed both Marin and the Trustee to address whether Appellant Marin has standing to 3 bring this appeal. ECF No. 38 at 7. 4 Marin and the Trustee subsequently filed their Briefs. See Marin Br.; Trustee Br.; 5

6 STANDARD OF REVIEW

7 To appeal a bankruptcy court order, the appellant bears the burden of demonstrating 8 both (1) Article III standing and (2) that he is “aggrieved” by the order he seeks to appeal. 9 In re E. Coast Foods, Inc., 80 F.4th 901, 905–06 (9th Cir. 2023), cert. denied sub nom., 10 Clifton Cap. Grp., LLC v. Sharp, 144 S. Ct. 1064 (2024). 11 To establish Article III standing, an appellant must show (1) he has suffered an 12 “injury in fact” that is concrete, particularized, and actual or imminent; (2) the injury can 13 be fairly traced to the appellee’s conduct; and (3) the injury can be redressed by a favorable 14 order from the appellate court. Id. at 906 (citing Lujan v. Defs. of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 15 560–61 (1992)). To demonstrate it is aggrieved by a bankruptcy court order, an appellant 16 must show that the order (1) diminishes the appellant’s property, (2) increases the 17 appellant’s burdens, or (3) detrimentally affects the appellant’s rights. In re P.R.T.C., Inc., 18 177 F.3d 774, 777 (9th Cir. 1999). 19 “[F]ederal courts are required sua sponte to examine jurisdictional issues such as 20 standing.” B.C. v. Plumas Unified Sch. Dist., 192 F.3d 1260, 1264 (9th Cir. 1999); see also 21 Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(h)(3) (“If the court determines at any time that it lacks subject-matter 22 jurisdiction, the court must dismiss the action.”).

23 DISCUSSION

24 As a threshold matter, Marin must demonstrate that he has standing to challenge the 25 Bankruptcy Order, which is not appealed here by his sister, the Debtor. Marin argues he 26 is “aggrieved” because the Bankruptcy Court’s ruling “damaged brother’s ownership of 27 the property,” and caused “a loss of possession of brother’s home.” Marin Br. at 2–4. 28 Marin confusingly asserts both that he had a lien on the Albatross Property at some point 1 before 2006, and as such is a creditor of Wells Fargo, who foreclosed on the property in 2 2019, and that he was deeded the title by his sister in November 2022. Id. at 5. He also 3 argues his possession “should have been protected by his sister’s automatic stay in 2024 4 because although sister disputed brother’s lien claim in prior bankruptcies so they were 5 adverse, in late 2022 sister dropped her challenge to brother and transferred her title to 6 brother but retained a 90% lien on the property herself.” Id. at 4–5. 7 The Trustee argues that Marin is not an aggrieved party because he does not have a 8 claim as a creditor of his sister’s property which was foreclosed upon and from which she 9 was evicted/locked out, as he was neither a debtor in possession nor did he have an interest 10 in the property. Trustee Br. at 6. The Court agrees with the Trustee. 11 First, Marin’s purported deed is not colorable on its face as the record indicates it 12 occurred after the property was sold on September 7, 2022, by Wells Fargo to John Bahr. 13 See ROA, ECF No. 35-24. This fact goes undisputed by Marin. 14 Similarly, nothing in the record reflects how Marin could have a lien on the Albatross 15 Property, and there is no dispute the property has been foreclosed upon and sold to a third 16 party, who has since then recorded the deed. See ROA, ECF Nos. 35-23, 35-24. While 17 Marin suggests he has a “senior lien” over Wells Fargo because “Bahr waived brother’s 18 claim,” pointing to his own bankruptcy case, Reply Br. at 3 (citing In re Marin, 24-4690- 19

JBM13 (Bankr. S.D. Cal. Dec. 9, 2024)), this provides no support. There, the bankruptcy court dismissed Marin's Chapter 13 case, finding, among other things, that neither Marin nor his sister had an interest in the Albatross Property, as follows. The Debtor has incomprehensibly filed a proof of claim as a creditor in his own bankruptcy case. (See Proof of Claim No. 5.) In support of this, the Debtor contends that he will further amend his plan to list his sister's ("Ms. Bauman's") "lien" against the Albatross Property [footnote omitted] in addition to or instead of his own claim against this same property. (See ECF No. 121, p. 15). This is despite the fact that the record fails to reflect how either of them could have a lien on the property, especially when the lender foreclosed on the property and the buyer evicted both the Debtor and his sister pre-petition. The Albatross Property is a fee simple. (See Proof of Claim No. 5; Debtor's initial plan at ECF No. 52; Schedule A at ECF No. 68). There is no dispute that various courts have entered orders that allowed the pre-petition foreclosure sale of the Albatross Property and findings against Debtor and his sister that allowed their eviction from the Albatross Property. . . . Although the Debtor himself is not a repeat bankruptcy filer, the Debtor has a lengthy history of litigating the Albatross Property's ownership. As discussed above, there are numerous orders from the state and district courts that have determined the Debtor and his sister no longer retain an interest in the Albatross Property. The entry of the orders cannot be disputed, the Debtor's issue is the legal impact of these orders and decisions. The Debtor and Ms. Bauman have been involved in numerous federal and state court proceedings regarding the Albatross Property and Ms. Bauman filed eight bankruptcy cases in which the Debtor has been heavily involved, none of which proceeded to confirmation. The Debtor has engaged in vexatious litigation conduct in many of those cases. [footnote omitted] For example, in Ms. Bauman's last bankruptcy case she and the Debtor sought to defeat the foreclosure sale of the Albatross Property, which was the same relief that Ms. Bauman failed to obtain in her prior bankruptcy cases. In fact, the prior bankruptcy court found that five of Ms. Bauman's cases attempted to defeat the foreclosure of the Albatross Property and the last two attempted to interfere with an unlawful detainer and lockout. (Case No. 24-01264-CL13, ECF No. 59.) Now that Ms. Bauman has a four-year bar to refiling, the Debtor has taken up the flag and is trying to do in his bankruptcy case what Ms. Bauman could not accomplish in hers. The Debtor's proposed plan provides for the Trustee to abandon all causes of action related to the subject property (including all claims for violation of the bankruptcy stays) so the Debtor can litigate against various alleged wrongdoers, all while having the benefit of the automatic stay in this case. There is no doubt that the Debtor will continue to fight with the entities that were involved in the Albatross Property's foreclosure and sale (including the purchaser), and any other party that was involved in his eviction ("Litigation Entities") until he has no further

Cal. May 30, 2025), Dkt. No. 169.5 6 The Court notes Marin's arguments may rely on a hope that he will receive a future 7 determination of an interest in the Albatross Property. For instance, Marin points to Marin v. Bahr, No. 23-CV-336 (S.D. Cal. Apr. 10, 2025) (hereinafter "Marin v. Bahr"), see Reply 9 Br. at 19, where he recently brought claims against Wells Fargo and Bahr, among others, 10 alleging that he is entitled to a finding that he is the "owner of the title" of the Albatross 11 Property and requesting the court set aside the sales to Wells Fargo in March 2019 and 12 Bahr in September 2022. Complaint ¶ 242, Marin v. Bahr, Dkt. No. 1.6 Though Marin 13 acknowledges the district court granted judgment against him, he argues that this ruling is 14 "void" and indicates he has pending motions for reconsideration in the case. Reply Br. 15 at 19, 21. Marin also contends that he has appealed, arguing that this makes the ruling not 16 "final," and thus suggests he has standing here as "no court with authority has yet ruled 17 against brother's title." Id. at 21. The latter assertion appears dubious at best, as the Court 18 notes in Marin's referenced case his claims against Wells Fargo and Bahr were found to be 19 barred by claim preclusion based on his previous dismissed actions that "conclusively 20 established Wells Fargo's right in the Albatross Street Unit." Order Granting Wells 21 Fargo's Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings at 7, Marin v. Bahr, Dkt. No. 77. In any 22 event, to the extent Marin still has available avenues to challenge Wells Fargo and Bahr's 23 respective rights in the property, the possibility of a future determination of an interest in 24 25 5 The Court finds it appropriate to take judicial notice of Marin's bankruptcy action here. See Rosales- Martinez v. Palmer, 753 F.3d 890, 894 (9th Cir. 2014) ("It is well established that [courts] may take 26 judicial notice of judicial proceedings in other courts."). 27 6 The Court will also take judicial notice of the document filings and court orders in Marin v. Bahr, No. 23- 28 CV-336 (S.D. Cal. Feb. 21, 2023). See Rosales-Martinez, 753 F.3d at 894. 1 || the Albatross Property fails to demonstrate "an invasion of a legally protected interest," for 2 purposes of this bankruptcy appeal, that is "concrete and particularized" and "actual or 3 ||imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical." Lujan, 504 U.S. at 560 (internal quotation 4 ||marks omitted); see also United States v. Nw, Inc., 573 F.2d 622, 626 (9th Cir. 7 || 1978) (appellant's interest "is remote and consequential rather than direct and immediate; 8 || he thus lacks standing to maintain the appeal."). 9 Because Marin's asserted interests in the property are both unsupported by the record 10 ||and fail to demonstrate that he is "directly and adversely affected pecuniarily" by the 11 Bankruptcy Order, the Court finds that Appellant Marin has not met his burden here of 12 demonstrating he is "aggrieved" by the order he seeks to appeal. In re P.R.T.C., 177 F.3d 13 ||at 777.
