

SUPREME COURT OF NEVADA

Bour Enterprises, LLC v. 4520 Arville C/W 83099

Bour Enters. · No. 82699; consolidated with 83099 · Decided September 16, 2022

SUMMARY

The Supreme Court of Nevada affirmed the district court's judgment in Docket No. 82699. It also affirmed the attorney fees and costs award in Docket No. 83099 because the appellants' challenge to that award depended solely on reversal of the underlying judgment.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the district court judgment in Docket No. 82699 should be reversed.

2. Whether the related attorney-fee and costs award in Docket No. 83099 should be reversed when the challenge to that award was premised solely on reversal of the underlying judgment.

HOLDINGS

1. The district court's judgment in Docket No. 82699 was affirmed.
2. The attorney-fee and costs award was affirmed because appellants' challenge to that award was premised solely on the propriety of the judgment in Docket No. 82699, which the court affirmed.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“We affirm the district court's judgment in Docket No. 82699. And because appellants' argument for reversing the attorney fees and costs award in Docket No. 83099 is premised solely on the propriety of the judgment challenged in Docket No. 82699, we necessarily affirm that award as well.”

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The available text identifies an underlying district court judgment and a related award of attorney fees and costs involving Bour Enterprises, LLC, Hilena Mengesha, Mulugeta Bour, 4520 Arville, and McKinley Manor. The appellants challenged the judgment in Docket No. 82699 and the attorney-fee and costs award in Docket No. 83099. The fee-and-costs challenge depended entirely on reversal of the underlying judgment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellants appealed from a district court judgment and a related award of attorney fees and costs. The Nevada Supreme Court consolidated Docket Nos. 82699 and 83099 under NRAP 3(b)(2), reviewed the appeals after briefing was completed, and issued an order of affirmance.
