

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF WISCONSIN

Lou A. Griffin v. Diane Jensen, Officer Martinez, Officer Wardoo, Officer Myers, Officer Christensen, Leyendecker, Longsine, Pearson,
S. Fumelle, S. Johnson, Officer Wertel, C. Xiong, Dustin R. Dimmer, and John Does

Griffin · No. 24-CV-53-JPS-JPS · Decided December 31, 2025

SUMMARY

The United States District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin lifted an automatic bankruptcy stay and reopened Lou A. Griffin’s § 1983 action. The court granted Diane Jensen’s motion for judgment on the pleadings and dismissed the claims against her with prejudice based on the Wellpath bankruptcy plan’s third-party release. The court denied Griffin’s motion to appoint counsel without prejudice because he had not made reasonable efforts to obtain representation, while allowing claims against the remaining defendants to proceed.

CASE DETAILS

COURT	United States District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin
JURISDICTION	United States District Court for the Eastern District of Wisconsin
DECIDED	December 31, 2025
DOCKET	24-CV-53-JPS-JPS
DISPOSITION	other
PROCEDURAL POSTURE	Plaintiff brought a 42 U.S.C. § 1983 action alleging a Fourteenth Amendment medical-care violation. After Defendant Jensen invoked an automatic bankruptcy stay, the case was administratively closed. Following confirmation of Wellpath's Chapter 11 plan and lifting of the stay, Plaintiff moved to reopen the case and appoint counsel, and Jensen moved for judgment on the pleadings based on the plan's third-party release.
STANDARD OF REVIEW	A motion for judgment on the pleadings under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(c) is governed by the same standard as a Rule 12(b)(6) motion. The court accepts well-pleaded factual allegations as true, draws reasonable inferences in the plaintiff's favor, and asks whether the complaint states a facially plausible claim for relief. The court reviewed the denial of appointed counsel under the discretionary framework requiring reasonable efforts to obtain counsel and consideration of whether the case's factual and legal difficulty exceeds the plaintiff's capacity to litigate as a layperson.

PRECEDENTIAL VALUE	unknown
PARTIES	Lou A. Griffin v. Diane Jensen, Officer Martinez, Officer Wardoo, Officer Myers, Officer Christensen, Leyendecker, Longsine, Pearson, S. Fumelle, S. Johnson, Officer Wertel, C. Xiong, Dustin R. Dimmer, John Does

TOPICS

motion for judgment on the pleadings

automatic stay

bankruptcy

section 1983

civil procedure

PRACTICE AREAS

Civil procedure

Bankruptcy

Civil rights

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the case should be reopened and the automatic stay lifted after the bankruptcy court confirmed Wellpath's Chapter 11 plan and lifted the stay.
2. Whether judgment on the pleadings was proper because Griffin's prepetition claims against Jensen were discharged or released under Wellpath's confirmed bankruptcy plan.
3. Whether Griffin was entitled to appointed counsel under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(1) after contacting only two attorneys, including one who did not handle the type of claim at issue.

HOLDINGS

1. The court lifted the stay and reopened the case because the bankruptcy proceedings no longer required the action to remain stayed.
2. Claims against Jensen arising from prepetition events were discharged or released under the confirmed Wellpath bankruptcy plan, and Jensen was therefore entitled to judgment on the pleadings and dismissal with prejudice.
3. The court denied Griffin's motion to appoint counsel without prejudice because he failed to make reasonable, good-faith efforts to obtain counsel on his own.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“the legal effect of bankruptcy judges’ orders does not depend on proof that claimants understand the meaning and significance of the documents they receive. It is enough that the documents be received.”
(Section 2)

“The Court will lift the stay, reopen this case, and grant Jensen’s motion for judgment on the pleadings. Plaintiff’s motion to appoint counsel will be denied without prejudice.” (Conclusion)

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Griffin brought a § 1983 action alleging that the defendants violated his constitutional rights through inadequate medical care, and the court allowed a Fourteenth Amendment medical claim to proceed against Doe defendants later identified by Griffin. Jensen was an employee of Wellpath, which filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy. The bankruptcy court confirmed a plan that discharged prepetition claims and imposed third-party releases for certain claims against Wellpath employees, while giving claimants an opportunity to opt out. Griffin did not opt out and sought to continue litigating against Jensen.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The court screened Plaintiff’s amended complaint and allowed a Fourteenth Amendment medical claim to proceed against Doe defendants. Plaintiff identified the Doe defendants, including Jensen, who later filed a suggestion of bankruptcy and notice of an automatic interim stay based on her employer Wellpath’s bankruptcy. The court administratively closed the action, then reopened it after the bankruptcy court lifted the stay and confirmed Wellpath’s plan. The court granted Jensen judgment on the pleadings and dismissed her with prejudice, denied Plaintiff’s motion to appoint counsel without prejudice, and allowed the claims against the remaining defendants to proceed.

DISPOSITION

other

CASES CITED

- Adams v. City of Indianapolis, 742 F.3d 720, 727–28 (7th Cir. 2014)
- Anicich v. Home Depot U.S.A., Inc., 852 F.3d 643, 648 (7th Cir. 2017)
- Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)
- Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009)
- Abercrombie v. Jack Cooper Transp. Co., Inc., No. 1:19-cv-503, 2020 WL 3841270, at *1 (N.D. Ind. July 8, 2020)
- Thomas v. Corizon Health, Inc., No. 25-1275, 2025 WL 2171021, at *1 (7th Cir. July 31, 2025)
- Thomas James v. Lorenzo Eli, James v. Eli, 889 F.3d 320, 326 (7th Cir. 2018)
- Navejar v. Iyiola, 718 F.3d 692, 696 (7th Cir. 2013)
- Pruitt v. Mote, 503 F.3d 647, 655 (7th Cir. 2007) (en banc)
- McCaa v. Hamilton, 893 F.3d 1027, 1031 (7th Cir. 2018)
- Jackson v. County of McLean, 953 F.2d 1070, 1073 (7th Cir. 1992)
- Kyle v. Feather, No. 09-cv-90-bbc, 2009 WL 2474627, at *1 (W.D. Wis. Aug. 11, 2009)

OPINION

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT EASTERN DISTRICT OF WISCONSIN LOU A. GRIFFIN, Plaintiff, Case No. 24-CV-53-JPS-JPS v. DIANE JENSEN, OFFICER ORDER MARTINEZ, OFFICER WARDOO, OFFICER MYERS, OFFICER CHRISTENSEN, LEYENDECKER, LONGSINE, PEARSON, S. FUMELLE, S. JOHNSON, OFFICER WERTEL, C. XIONG, DUSTIN R. DIMMER, and JOHN DOES, Defendants.

On January 16, 2024, Plaintiff filed a complaint under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 alleging that various individuals violated his constitutional rights. ECF No. 1. On May 10, 2024, the Court screened Plaintiff's amended complaint and allowed him to proceed on a Fourteenth Amendment medical claim against Doe Defendants. ECF No. 15. Plaintiff later identified the various Doe defendants, ECF No. 25, and Defendant Diane Jensen ("Jensen") appeared on January 28, 2025, ECF No. 46.

On January 30, 2025, Jensen filed a suggestion of bankruptcy and notice of automatic interim stay. ECF No. 48. Defendant explained that Wellpath, LLC, her employer at the relevant time, had filed for bankruptcy, so Plaintiff's claim against her should be stayed. Id. Defendant further explained that a bankruptcy court's order imposed an automatic stay of this action until February 18, 2025.

Id. Following a request from the Court, Defendant Jensen filed a status update on February 28, 2025, indicating the automatic stay was extended. ECF No. 54. On March 4, 2025, the Court administratively closed the case subject to the automatic stay and bankruptcy court's orders. ECF No. 55. Now pending before the Court are Plaintiff's motion to reopen the case, Plaintiff's motion to appoint counsel, and Defendant Jensen's motion for judgment on the pleadings.

ECF Nos. 56, 60, 61. 1. MOTION TO REOPEN On May 22, 2025, Defendant Jensen provided a status update about the bankruptcy proceedings. ECF No. 57. Jensen provided that on May 1, 2025, the bankruptcy court had entered an order confirming Wellpath's First Amended Joint Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization (the "Plan"). Id. at 1.

On May 9, 2025, the bankruptcy court had lifted the automatic stay, and Wellpath was "discharged from liability for all claims... involving incidents that happened before the bankruptcy (i.e., before November 11, 2024)." Id. at 2.

The plan provides that claimants still awaiting judgment on claims against Wellpath may participate in alternative dispute resolution or litigate against the liquidating trust as a nominal defendant. Id. Jensen also explained that incarcerated individuals who had personal injury claims pending against non-debtor defendants (Wellpath's directors, officers and other employees) had until July 30, 2025 "to opt out of the third-party releases of claims against non-debtor defendants under the Plan." Id. at 3; see also ECF No. No. 57-1 at 52, ¶43 (bankruptcy court order of May 1, 2025).

Jensen explained that because the events in the instant case allegedly occurred before November 11, 2024, Plaintiff's claims against Jensen would be discharged unless Plaintiff elected to opt-out of the third-party releases. ECF No. 57 at 3. Plaintiff filed a response to the status report indicating that he did not want to dismiss Defendant Jensen and that he wanted the case to proceed to mediation.

ECF No. 58. In light of the bankruptcy court proceedings, there is no longer a need to stay the case. The Court will therefore lift the stay and reopen the case. The Court now turns to Jensen's motion for judgment on the pleadings. 2. MOTION FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS
The Court will grant Jensen's motion for judgment on the pleadings.

After the pleadings are closed, but early enough not to delay trial, a defendant may move for judgment on the pleadings if a complaint fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(c). A motion for judgment on the pleadings is governed by the same standard as a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim under Rule 12(b)(6).

Adams v. City of Indianapolis, 742 F.3d 720, 727–28 (7th Cir. 2014). In reviewing a dismissal under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), we accept as true all factual allegations in the complaint and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the plaintiff. Anicich v. Home Depot U.S.A., Inc., 852 F.3d 643, 648 (7th Cir. 2017).

To survive a motion for judgment on the pleadings, a complaint must state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face. Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). A claim has factual plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.

Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009). Claims that have been discharged in bankruptcy can be dismissed for failure to state a claim. See, e.g., Abercrombie v. Jack Cooper Transp. Co., Inc., No. 1:19-cv-503, 2020 WL 3841270, at *1 (N.D. Ind. July 8, 2020) ("Clearly, Plaintiff's claims were discharged in the bankruptcy, as further explained below, such that he fails to state a claim upon which any relief may be granted.").

Here, Jensen seeks judgment on the pleading to dismiss all claims against her with prejudice based on the third-party release contained in the plan of reorganization confirmed by the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of Texas in In re Wellpath Holdings, Inc., Case 24-90533. ECF No. 61 at 1. Jensen argues that the claims against her have also been released in the bankruptcy proceedings because she is a current/former employee of Wellpath and Plaintiff did not opt out of the third-party release prior to the July 30, 2025 deadline.

Id. at 5–6. Plaintiff objects to the dismissal of the claims against Jensen and argues that he was not able to understand the legal issues. ECF No. 64. In her reply, Jensen points out that "Plaintiff had the opportunity to challenge the third-party release—and his ability to comprehend the release in Wellpath's bankruptcy proceedings—and did not do so." ECF No. 65.

The Seventh Circuit has stated that “the legal effect of bankruptcy judges’ orders does not depend on proof that claimants understand the meaning and significance of the documents they receive. It is enough that the documents be received.” Thomas v. Corizon Health, Inc., No. 25-1275, 2025 WL 2171021, at *1 (7th Cir. July 31, 2025) (emphasis in original). Nothing in the record indicates that Plaintiff opted out of the third-party release.

Plaintiff was made aware of the opt out option during the course of this case. See ECF No. 54, 57. Plaintiff’s lack of understanding of the third-party release therefore does not negate the bankruptcy court’s proceedings.

Because the record from the bankruptcy court confirms that claims against Wellpath and its employees (such as Jensen) that occurred before the bankruptcy petition have been discharged, the Court finds that Jensen’s motion for judgment on the pleadings must be granted. See, e.g., Abercrombie, 2020 WL 3841270, at *1.

The Court will therefore grant the motion for judgement on the pleadings and will dismiss Jensen from this case with prejudice. 3. MOTION TO APPOINT COUNSEL The Court will deny Plaintiff’s third motion to appoint counsel without prejudice. ECF No. 60.

As a civil litigant, Plaintiff has “neither a constitutional nor statutory right to a court-appointed attorney.” James v. Eli, 889 F.3d 320, 326 (7th Cir. 2018). However, under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(1), a “court may request an attorney to represent any person unable to afford counsel.” A court should seek counsel to represent a plaintiff if: (1) he has made reasonable attempts to secure counsel; and (2) “the difficulty of the case—factually and legally—exceeds the particular plaintiff’s capacity as a layperson to coherently present it.” Navejar v. Iyiola, 718 F.3d 692, 696 (7th Cir.

2013) (quoting Pruitt v. Mote, 503 F.3d 647, 655 (7th Cir. 2007) (en banc)). Whether to appoint counsel in a particular case is left to a court’s discretion. James, 889 F.3d at 326; McCaa v. Hamilton, 893 F.3d 1027, 1031 (7th Cir. 2018). While framed in terms of a plaintiff’s capacity to litigate, this discretion must also be informed by the realities of recruiting counsel in this District.

When a court recruits a lawyer to represent a pro se party, the lawyer takes the case pro bono. Unlike a lawyer appointed to represent a criminal defendant during his prosecution, who is paid by the government for his work, an attorney who takes a prisoner’s civil case pro bono has no promise of compensation. It is difficult to convince local lawyers to take such cases.

Unlike other districts in this Circuit, see, e.g., L.R. 83.35 (N.D. Ill.), the Eastern District of Wisconsin does not employ an involuntary appointment system for lawyers admitted to practice in the District. Instead, the District relies on the willingness of lawyers to sign up for the Pro Bono Attorney Panel and, once there, accept appointments as needed. See Pro Bono Program, available at: <http://www.wied.uscourts.gov/pro-bono-program>.

The District is grateful to the lawyers who participate in the Pro Bono Program, but there are never enough volunteers, and those who do volunteer rarely take more than one or two cases a year. This is understandable, as many are already busy attending to fee-paying clients.

Although the Pro Bono Program does provide for payment of certain litigation expenses, it does not directly compensate a lawyer for his or her time. Participants may seek attorney's fees when permitted by statute, such as in successful § 1983 cases, but they will otherwise go unpaid.

The small pool of attorneys available to this District for pro bono appointments stands in stark contrast to that of the Court of Appeals, which regularly recruits counsel from across the nation to represent pro se plaintiffs on appeal. See, e.g., James, 889 F.3d at 323 (appointing counsel from Washington, D.C. to represent the pro se appellant); McCaa, 893 F.3d at 1029 (same).

Against the thin ranks of ready and willing counsel rises the overwhelming tide of pro se prisoner litigation in this District.¹ In 2010, approximately 300 civil actions were filed by prisoner litigants. More than half sought habeas corpus relief, while the remainder were § 1983 actions. ¹Although non-prisoner pro se litigants may also be considered for the appointment of counsel under § 1915, the Court does not address that set of pro se litigants here for a few reasons.

First, the volume of non-prisoner pro se litigation is miniscule compared to that brought by prisoners. Second, prisoners are much more likely to request the appointment of counsel. Paradoxically, prisoners are usually far better equipped to litigate than non-prisoners, as prisoners have access to electronic filing, institution law libraries, and fellow prisoners who offer services as “jailhouse lawyers.” Yet, learning a little of the legal system means that prisoners know they can request the appointment of pro bono counsel, which they do with regularity, alleging violations of constitutional rights.

Since then, the number of habeas corpus cases has remained largely steady at around 130 per year, while the volume of § 1983 lawsuits has skyrocketed. About 499 § 1983 actions were filed in 2022, and another 571 in 2023—each significantly more than the entirety of the District's civil prisoner filings from years earlier.

In 2024, § 1983 actions numbered 582. All told, well over a third of the District's new case filings are submitted by unrepresented inmates. On its best day, this District has the resources to realistically consider appointment of counsel in only a tiny fraction of these cases.

Finally, it must be remembered that, when a court determines that counsel recruitment is appropriate, it can take months to locate a willing lawyer. This delay works to the detriment of all parties and contravenes Congress's instruction in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 1 that district courts must endeavor to secure the “just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every action.” Fed.

R. Civ. P. 1. Thus, looming large over each request for counsel are a court's ever-more-limited time and resources. With these considerations in mind, the Court returns to the question presented: whether counsel can and should be recruited to represent Plaintiff at this stage in this case.

First, a court asks whether the litigant has made "reasonable" efforts to obtain his own representation. Pruitt, 503 F.3d at 655; Jackson v. County of McLean, 953 F.2d 1070, 1073 (7th Cir. 1992). It is a question not often litigated; many district court judges either overlook arguably unreasonable efforts at obtaining counsel, or they impose eminently practical requirements such as the submission of evidence demonstrating that the prisoner has tried and failed to secure representation from several lawyers.

See, e.g., Kyle v. Feather, No. 09-cv-90- bbc, 2009 WL 2474627, at *1 (W.D. Wis. Aug. 11, 2009). The first element of Pruitt is fairly easy to satisfy, but it is not toothless, and it is not a mere technical condition of submitting a certain number of rejection letters. If it was, then a Wisconsin prisoner litigating a § 1983 action could submit rejection letters from ten randomly selected criminal defense lawyers from Nevada and call his work complete.

This cannot be. The purpose of the reasonable-efforts requirement is to ensure that if a court and private lawyers must expend scarce resources to provide counsel for a prisoner, he has at least made a good-faith effort to avoid those costs by getting a lawyer himself.

To fulfill this duty, a pro se prisoner should reach out to lawyers whose areas of practice suggest that they might consider taking his case. If he learns that some of the lawyers he has contacted do not, he should reach out to others before he concludes that no one will help him. Plaintiff indicates that he contacted attorneys to take his case. ECF Nos. 50, 60.

However, Plaintiff contacted only two attorneys, one located in Florida who did not handle his types of claim. ECF No. 50-1 at 15-16. Based on this, the Court finds that Plaintiff did not make a good-faith effort to obtain counsel. Plaintiff has therefore failed to satisfy the first Pruitt factor and his motion will be denied without prejudice. Plaintiff may renew his request later, if needed, and cure the deficiencies identified in this Order.

4. CONCLUSION The Court will lift the stay, reopen this case, and grant Jensen's motion for judgment on the pleadings. Plaintiff's motion to appoint counsel will be denied without prejudice. Plaintiff's claims against the remaining defendants will proceed, and the Court will issue a scheduling order in due course.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that Plaintiff's motion to reopen the case, ECF No. 56, be and the same is hereby GRANTED; the Clerk of Court is DIRECTED to REOPEN this case; IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Plaintiff's motion to appoint counsel, ECF No. 60, be and the same is hereby DENIED without prejudice; IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendant Diane Jensen's motion for judgment on the pleadings, ECF No. 61, be and the same is hereby GRANTED; and IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendant Diane Jensen be and the same is hereby DISMISSED with prejudice from this action.

Dated at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, this 31st day of December, 2025. Yee We eas) RV YR J.P. Stach ueller U.S? District Judge Page 9 of 9