16 V. DISPUTED EVIDENTIARY ISSUES / MOTIONS IN LIMINE

17 The purpose of a motion in limine is to establish in advance of the trial that certain 18 evidence should or should not be admitted at trial. The Court will grant a motion in limine 19 precluding use of evidence only if the moving party establishes that the evidence clearly is not 20 admissible for any valid purpose. The Court does not encourage the filing of motions in limine 21 unless they are addressed to issues that can realistically be resolved by the Court prior to trial and 22 without dependence on other evidence which will be introduced by the parties at trial. 23 In advance of filing any motion in limine, the parties shall meet and confer to 24 determine whether they can resolve any disputes and avoid filing motions in limine. The 25 parties shall exhaust efforts to resolve such evidentiary disputes prior to filing a motion in 26 limine and shall include in any such motion a certification concerning their meet and confer 27 efforts. 28 The parties anticipate filing the evidentiary objections and/or motions in limine identified 1 below. Any motion in limine shall be filed no later than May 12, 2026. The motion must clearly 2 identify the nature of the evidence that the moving party seeks to have admitted or seeks to 3 prohibit the other side from offering at trial. Any opposition to a motion in limine shall be filed 4 no later than May 26, 2026. After reviewing the motions and any opposition briefs, the Court 5 will notify the parties if a reply brief is necessary. As such, parties shall not file any reply briefs 6 without court approval. The Court will also notify the parties if it will hear argument on any 7 motions in limine prior to the first day of trial. 8 The joint pretrial statement identifies the following motions in limine that the parties 9 intend to file: 10 1. Plaintiff: 11 a. Motion in Limine to Admit Body-Worn Camera

28 VI. SPECIAL FACTUAL INFORMATION

1 The claims in this case do not fall under any of the specific actions listed in Local Rule 2 281(b) (6).

3 VII. RELIEF SOUGHT

4 1. Plaintiff seeks the following relief: 5 a. Compensatory Damages: General and special damages according to proof 6 at trial, including but not limited to: 7 i. Economic Damages: 8 • Past medical expenses incurred for treatment of injuries 9 sustained on November 26, 2022; 10 • Future medical expenses reasonably certain to be incurred; 11 • Past lost earning capacity; 12 • Future lost earning capacity; 13 • Other economic losses according to proof. 14 ii. Non-Economic Damages: 15 • Physical pain and suffering, past and future; 16 • Mental and emotional distress, past and future; 17 • Post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD); 18 • Anxiety and depression; 19 • Humiliation, embarrassment, and indignity; 20 • Loss of enjoyment of life; 21 • Fear and ongoing psychological harm; 22 • Other non-economic damages according to proof. 23 b. Attorneys' Fees and Costs: Reasonable attorneys' fees and costs pursuant to 24 42 U.S.C. § 1988, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 54, Local Rules 292 and 25 293, and all other applicable statutes and rules. 26 c. Pre-Judgment and Post-Judgment Interest: As allowed by law. 27 d. Such Other and Further Relief: As the Court deems just and proper. 28 Plaintiff contends that Defendants' actions were objectively unreasonable, violated clearly 1 established constitutional rights, and caused significant physical, emotional, and economic harm 2 to Plaintiff. Plaintiff seeks full compensation for all damages suffered as a direct and proximate 3 result of Defendants' conduct. 4 2. Defendants' Position: Defendants contend that all actions taken were entirely 5 lawful and reasonable. Defendants seek dismissal of this case, costs, and 6 attorneys' fees under 42 U.S.C. § 1988 and 42 U.S.C. § 1927, Federal Rule of 7 Civil Procedure 54, Local Rules 292 and 293, and all other applicable statutes and 8 rules.

9 VIII. POINTS OF LAW

10 The claims and defenses arise under federal law. 11 1. The elements of, standards for, and burden of proof in a claim of unlawful seizure 12 in violation of the Fourth Amendment. 13 2. The elements of, standards for, and burden of proof in a claim of excessive force in 14 violation of the Fourth Amendment. 15 3. The elements of, standards for, and burden of proof for the affirmative defense of 16 qualified immunity. 17 The parties also identify the following additional points of law: 18 1. Plaintiff's Points of Law: 19 a. 42 U.S.C. § 1983 - Excessive Force Under the Fourth Amendment 20 To prevail on a claim for excessive force under the Fourth Amendment, Plaintiff must 21 prove by a preponderance of the evidence that: (1) the Defendant Officers seized Plaintiff; and (2) 22 the force used was objectively unreasonable. Graham v. Connor, 490 U.S. 386, 388 (1989). 23 The reasonableness of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a 24 reasonable officer on the scene, rather than with the 20/20 vision of hindsight. Id. at 396. The 25 calculus of reasonableness must embody allowance for the fact that police officers are often 26 forced to make split-second judgments—in circumstances that are tense, uncertain, and rapidly 27 evolving—about the amount of force that is necessary in a particular situation. Id. at 396-97. 28 However, "not every push or shove, even if it may later seem unnecessary in the peace of 1 a judge's chambers, violates the Fourth Amendment." Id. at 396 (internal quotation marks 2 omitted). The question is whether the officers' actions are objectively reasonable in light of the 3 facts and circumstances confronting them, without regard to their underlying intent or motivation.

4 Id. at 397.

5 Courts consider several factors in determining whether force was excessive, including: 6 1. The severity of the crime at issue; 7 2. Whether the suspect poses an immediate threat to the safety of the officers or 8 others; 9 3. Whether the suspect is actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by 10 flight; 11 4. The amount of time and any changing circumstances during the encounter; 12 5. The type and amount of force used; and 13 6. The extent of the plaintiff's injury. 14 Glenn v. Washington County, 673 F.3d 864, 871 (9th Cir. 2011); Miller v. Clark County, 340 15 F.3d 959, 964 (9th Cir. 2003). 16 Application to This Case: 17 Plaintiff will demonstrate that the force used by Defendant Officers was objectively 18 unreasonable because: 19 • Plaintiff was not suspected of any serious crime; 20 • Plaintiff posed no immediate threat to officer safety or to others; 21 • Plaintiff was not actively resisting or attempting to flee; 22 • Officers had ample time to assess the situation and chose not to do so; 23 • The force used (tackling, baton strikes, neck compression, continued force after 24 handcuffing) was excessive and disproportionate; 25 • Plaintiff suffered significant injuries. 26 Moreover, the Ninth Circuit has held that "gratuitous violence against a suspect who has 27 been already been seized and brought under control" violates the Fourth Amendment. Drummond 28 v. City of Anaheim, 343 F.3d 1052, 1057 (9th Cir. 2003). Here, Defendant Officers continued to 1 use force even after Plaintiff was on the ground, subdued, and handcuffed. 2 b. Clearly Established Law - Qualified Immunity 3 While Defendants will assert qualified immunity, that defense fails here because the law 4 was clearly established that the conduct engaged in by Defendant Officers violated the Fourth 5 Amendment. 6 "Qualified immunity shields government officials from civil damages liability unless the 7 official violated a statutory or constitutional right that was clearly established at the time of the 8 challenged conduct." Reichle v. Howards, 566 U.S. 658, 664 (2012). 9 A right is clearly established when, at the time of the challenged conduct, "[t]he contours 10 of [the] right [are] sufficiently clear that every reasonable official would have understood that 11 what he is doing violates that right." Ashcroft v. al-Kidd, 563 U.S. 731, 741 (2011). This inquiry 12 "must be undertaken in light of the specific context of the case, not as a broad general 13 proposition." Mullenix v. Luna, 577 U.S. 7, 12 (2015) (per curiam) (internal quotation marks 14 omitted). 15 However, officials can "still be on notice that their conduct violates established law even 16 in novel factual circumstances." Hope v. Pelzer, 536 U.S. 730, 741 (2002). A case directly on 17 point is not required if "a general constitutional rule already identified in the decisional law" 18 applies "with obvious clarity to the specific conduct in question." United States v. Lanier, 520 19 U.S. 259, 271 (1997). 20

Application to This Case: 21 It has long been clearly established that: 22 • Officers may not use gratuitous force against individuals who are secured and 23 under control. Drummond, 343 F.3d at 1057; 24 • Officers may not continue to use force after the justification for that force has 25 dissipated. Gravelet-Blondin v. Shelton, 728 F.3d 1086, 1093 (9th Cir. 2013); 26 • Beating a non-resisting suspect with a baton violates the Fourth Amendment. 27 LaLonde v. County of Riverside, 204 F.3d 947, 960 (9th Cir. 2000); 28 • Officers may not use significant force against a person who poses no threat and is 1 not resisting. Bryan v. MacPherson, 630 F.3d 805, 826 (9th Cir. 2010). 2 Every reasonable officer in Defendant Officers' position would have known that using the 3 force employed against Plaintiff under these circumstances violated the Fourth Amendment. 4 c. Damages 5 Economic Damages: Plaintiff is entitled to recover all economic losses proximately 6 caused by Defendants' constitutional violations, including past and future medical expenses, lost 7 wages, and lost earning capacity. Carey v. Piphus, 435 U.S. 247, 264 (1978); Memphis 8 Community School Dist. v. Stachura, 477 U.S. 299, 307 (1986). 9 Non-Economic Damages: Plaintiff is entitled to recover compensatory damages for 10 physical and emotional suffering, mental anguish, humiliation, and other intangible harms. Carey, 11 435 U.S. at 264. 12 Punitive Damages: Punitive damages are available in § 1983 actions "when the 13 defendant's conduct is shown to be motivated by evil motive or intent, or when it involves 14 reckless or callous indifference to the federally protected rights of others." Smith v. Wade, 461 15 U.S. 30, 56 (1983). Punitive damages serve to punish egregious conduct and to deter future 16 violations. Such damages are appropriate here given the nature of Defendant Officers' conduct. 17

2. Defendants' Points of Law: 18 a. 42 U.S.C § 1983- Violation of the Fourth Amendment- Unreasonable 19 Seizure 20 Ninth Circuit Model Jury Instruction 9.20 provides in pertinent part: 21 Under the Fourth Amendment, a person has the right to be free from an unreasonable 22 seizure of his person. To prove the defendant deprived the plaintiff of this Fourth Amendment 23

right, the plaintiff must prove the following additional elements by a preponderance of the evidence: First, the defendant seized the plaintiff's person; Second, in seizing the plaintiff, the defendant acted intentionally; and Third, the seizure was unreasonable. A defendant "seizes" the plaintiff's person when [he] [she] restrains the plaintiff's liberty through coercion, physical force, or a show of authority. A person's liberty is restrained when, under all of the circumstances, a reasonable person would not have felt free to ignore the presence of law enforcement officers and to go about his business. In determining whether a reasonable person in the plaintiff's position would have felt free to leave, consider all of the circumstances, including: (1) the number of officers present; (2) whether weapons were displayed; (3) whether the encounter occurred in a public or nonpublic setting; (4) whether the officer's manner would imply that compliance would be compelled; and (5) whether the officers advised the plaintiff that [he] [she] [other pronoun] was free to leave. Under Ninth Circuit Model Jury Instruction 9.23: In general, a seizure of a person by arrest without a warrant is reasonable if the arresting officer[s] had probable cause to believe the plaintiff has committed or was committing a crime. In order to prove the seizure in this case was unreasonable, the plaintiff must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that he was arrested without probable cause. "Probable cause" exists when, under all of the circumstances known to the officer[s] at the time, an objectively reasonable police officer would conclude there is a fair probability that the plaintiff has committed or was committing a crime. Although the facts known to the officer are relevant to your inquiry, the officer's intent or motive is not relevant to your inquiry. Under state law, it is a crime to willfully resist, delay, or obstruct any public officer, peace officer. 42 U.S.C § 1983- Violation of the Fourth Amendment- Excessive Force In analyzing a claim for excessive force under the Fourth Amendment, the Ninth Circuit instructs: In general, a seizure of a person is unreasonable under the Fourth Amendment if a police officer uses excessive force in making a lawful arrest and/or in defending himself and/or in attempting to stop a fleeing or escaping suspect. Therefore, to establish an unreasonable seizure in this case, the plaintiff must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that the officer[s] used excessive force. Under the Fourth Amendment, a police officer may use only such force as is "objectively reasonable" under all of the circumstances. The jury must judge the reasonableness of a particular use of force from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene and not with the 20/20 vision of hindsight. Although the facts known to the officer are relevant to the jury's inquiry, an officer's subjective intent or motive is not relevant to the inquiry. In determining whether the officer used excessive force in this case, a jury is to consider all of the circumstances known to the officer on the scene, including: (1) the nature of the crime or other circumstances known to the officer[s] at the time force was applied; (2) whether the plaintiff posed an immediate threat to the safety of the officer[s] or to others; (3) whether the plaintiff was actively resisting arrest or attempting to evade arrest by flight; (4) the amount of time the officer had to determine the type and amount of force that reasonably appeared necessary, and any changing circumstances during that period; (5) the relationship between the 15 need for the use of force and the amount of force used; (6) the extent of the plaintiff's injury; (7) 16 any effort made by the officer to temper or to limit the amount of force; (8) the severity of the 17 security problem at issue; (9) the availability of alternative methods to take the plaintiff into 18 custody; (10) the number of lives at risk (motorists, pedestrians, police officers) and the parties' 19 relative culpability; i.e., which party created the dangerous situation, and which party is more 20 innocent; (11) whether it was practical for the officer[s] to give warning of the imminent use of 21 force, and whether such warning was given; and (13) whether there was probable cause for a 22 reasonable officer to believe that the suspect had committed a crime involving the infliction or 23 threatened infliction of serious physical harm. See Ninth Circuit Model Jury Instruction 9.25. 24 i. Qualified Immunity 25 "[T]he doctrine of qualified immunity protects government officials from liability for civil 26 damages insofar as their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional 27 rights of which a reasonable person would have known." Mattos v. Agarano, 661 F.3d 433, 440 28 (9th Cir. 2011) (quoting Pearson v. Callahan, 555 U.S. 223, 231 (2009)). "The purpose of 1 qualified immunity is to strike a balance between the competing 'need to hold public officials 2 accountable when they exercise power irresponsibly and the need to shield officials from 3 harassment, distraction, and liability when they perform their duties reasonably.'" Id. (quoting 4 Pearson, 555 U.S. at 231). Qualified immunity "is 'an immunity from suit rather than a mere 5 defense to liability; and like an absolute immunity, it is effectively lost if a case is erroneously 6 permitted to go to trial.'" Mueller v. Auker, 576 F.3d 979, 992 (9th Cir. 2009) (emphasis in 7 original) (quoting Mitchell v. Forsyth, 472 U.S. 511, 526, (1985)). "Under qualified immunity, an 8 officer will be protected from suit when he or she 'makes a decision that, even if constitutionally 9 deficient, reasonably misapprehends the law governing the circumstances.'" Id. (quoting Brosseau 10 v. Haugen, 543 U.S. 194, 198 (2004)). 11 "[Q]ualified immunity protects 'all but the plainly incompetent or those who knowingly 12 violate the law.'" Ziglar v. Abbasi, 137 S. Ct. 1843, 1867 (2017) quoting Malley v. Briggs, 475 13 U.S. 335, 341 (1986). "The doctrine of qualified immunity gives officials 'breathing room to 14 make reasonable but mistaken judgments about open legal questions.'" Id. at 1866 quoting 15 Ashcroft v. al-Kidd, 563 U.S. 731, 743 (2011). "[I]f a reasonable officer might not have known 16 for certain that the conduct was unlawful[,] then the officer is immune from liability." Id. at 1867. 17 In tense situations, officials are afforded "broad discretion" and "immunity even when officers 18 make mistakes." Jeffers v. Gomez, 267 F.3d 895, 909 (9th Cir. 2001). 19 In determining whether an officer is entitled to qualified immunity, courts consider (1) 20 whether the officer violated a constitutional right of the plaintiff, and (2) whether that 21 constitutional right was "clearly established in light of the specific content of the case" at the time 22 of the events in question. Mattos, 661 F.3d at 440 (citation omitted). Courts may exercise their 23 sound discretion in deciding which of these two prongs should be addressed first. Id. citing 24 Saucier v. Katz, 533 U.S. 194, 201 (2001). 25 Regarding the second prong, the Supreme Court has cautioned that "'clearly established 26 law' should not be defined 'at a high level of generality'" but instead "must be 'particularized' to 27 the facts of the case." White v. Pauly, 137 S. Ct. 548, 552 (2017) (citations omitted). The 28 Supreme Court has held that "[a]lthough [its] case law does not require a case directly on point 1 for a right to be clearly established, existing precedent must have placed the statutory or 2 constitutional question beyond debate." Kisela v. Hughes, 138 S. Ct. 1148, 1152 (2018) (citing 3 White, 137 S. Ct. at 551).
