QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether the circuit court erred in allowing the respondents' counsel to represent the homeowners association and its president.
2. Whether Alan J. Dilts was prejudiced by the lack of an interpreter at a November 30, 2011 hearing or was entitled to appointed counsel in the civil case.
3. Whether the circuit court abused its discretion by imposing a $978.70 attorney-fee and cost sanction on Patricia A. Dilts for failing to attend a deposition.
4. Whether the circuit court properly granted summary judgment on the homeowners association's claim for unpaid assessment fees and on the Diltses' surplus-funds counterclaim.
5. Whether the circuit court properly entered default judgment as a sanction for the Diltses' misconduct.
6. Whether the circuit court properly dismissed DeBlasio for improper joinder and dismissed the third-party complaints for lack of completed or attempted service.
7. Whether the circuit court properly denied Alan and Patricia Dilts's Rule 59(e) motions for reconsideration.

HOLDINGS

1. The objection to respondents' legal representation was without merit because the issue had been previously adjudicated in a related case.
2. The circuit court properly addressed the interpreter issue, and Dilts was not prejudiced by the absence of an interpreter at the November 30, 2011 hearing.
3. The circuit court did not abuse its discretion by awarding $978.70 in attorney fees and court-reporter costs as a sanction for Dilts's failure to attend her noticed deposition.
4. The circuit court properly denied the Diltses' timely Rule 59(e) motions because they repeated claims and factual allegations already addressed by the court.

5. The court found no prejudicial error in the circuit court's summary judgment rulings or its entry of partial default judgment as a sanction against the Diltzes, and affirmed the final order.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“With respect to all other non-frivolous issues raised, we hereby adopt and incorporate the circuit court’s well-reasoned findings and conclusions as to the assignments of error raised in these consolidated appeals.”
(-5)

“For the foregoing reasons, we find no error in the decisions of the Circuit Court of Morgan County.” (-5)

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The petitioners owned interests in two subdivision lots and had ongoing disputes with their homeowners association. The association sued Alan and Patricia Dilts for damage to a graveled subdivision road and unpaid annual assessment fees. DeBlasio was joined as an additional defendant, and the petitioners attempted to assert third-party claims against the association's president and another individual. The circuit court found that the petitioners engaged in serious litigation misconduct, including frivolous claims, unsupported factual denials, excessive subpoenas, ethics complaints against opposing counsel, attempted conflicts of interest, improper joinder of DeBlasio, and deliberate deception of the court.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The homeowners association sued Alan and Patricia Dilts for $425 in damage to a subdivision road and $200 in unpaid 2011 assessment fees. The circuit court joined DeBlasio, later dismissed him for improper joinder, granted the association summary judgment on the assessment and surplus-funds claims, dismissed the third-party complaints, and entered default judgment against the Diltzes as a sanction for litigation misconduct. The court denied the Diltzes' Rule 59(e) motions for reconsideration, and the Supreme Court of Appeals affirmed.
