FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Plaintiff is incarcerated in state prison and is proceeding pro se and in forma pauperis. He alleges civil-rights violations arising at Salinas Valley State Prison in Monterey County, California. Because Monterey County lies within the Northern District of California, the court concluded that the claim should have been filed there.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The court previously screened plaintiff’s original complaint, granted leave to proceed in forma pauperis, declined to transfer sua sponte because venue was unclear, and ordered plaintiff to identify where the events occurred.
