QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether Kleitz was entitled to mandamus relief directing the trial court to vacate its orders denying her motion for judgment on the pleadings or to deem allegations admitted and granting Avi Ron leave to amend his answer.

2. Whether emergency relief staying the underlying trial was warranted.

HOLDINGS

1. Kleitz failed to establish that she was entitled to mandamus relief, so the court denied her petition.
2. Emergency relief was denied.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“We conclude that relator has failed to establish she is entitled to mandamus relief, and therefore, the Court denies relator’s petition for writ of mandamus.”

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

In the underlying case, Avi Ron sued Hollie Kleitz and Quasar Development, Inc. in the 113th District Court of Harris County. Kleitz sought mandamus relief from two orders signed on May 6, 2026: one denying her motion for judgment on the pleadings or to deem allegations admitted, and another granting Ron leave to amend his answer. Trial in the underlying case had begun when Kleitz filed her mandamus petition.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Kleitz challenged an order denying her motion for judgment on the pleadings or, alternatively, to deem allegations admitted, and an order granting Avi Ron leave to amend his answer. She asked the court of appeals to direct the trial court to vacate the orders and to stay the underlying trial, which had already commenced. The court denied mandamus relief, denied emergency relief, and dismissed pending motions as moot.
