QUESTIONS PRESENTED

- Whether the trial court's judgments of conviction contained reversible error.

HOLDINGS

- The court found no reversible error in either judgment of conviction and affirmed both judgments.

KEY QUOTATIONS

“Having reviewed the record and the parties’ arguments, the Court holds that there was no reversible error in the judgment.”

“Therefore, the Court affirms the trial court’s judgment of conviction.”

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

The document identifies appeals from judgments of conviction but does not provide the underlying offense, evidentiary facts, or trial facts. The appellate court reviewed the record and the parties' arguments and concluded that no reversible error affected either judgment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Holley appealed the trial court's judgments of conviction in two criminal cases. The Court of Appeals reviewed the record and the parties' arguments, found no reversible error, and affirmed both judgments. The court made no adjudication of costs because Holley was indigent and unable to pay them.

DISPOSITION

affirmed
