SUMMARY

The Thirteenth Court of Appeals of Texas considered Barry Dwayne Minnfee’s pro se petition for writ of mandamus. The court dismissed the proceeding as improvidently filed because Minnfee, a vexatious litigant subject to a prefiling order, had not shown that he obtained permission from the local administrative judge to file it.

A court may enter an order prohibiting a person from filing a new litigation in a court in this state if the court finds, after notice and hearing, that the person is a vexatious litigant and the local administrative judge of the court in which the person intends to file the litigation has not granted permission to file the new litigation. See TEX. CIV. PRAC. & REM.

CODE ANN. § 11.101(a) (West Supp. 2011). A local administrative judge may grant permission to a person found to be a vexatious litigant under Section 11.101 to file a litigation only if it appears to the judge that the litigation: (1) has merit; and (2) has not been filed for the purposes of harassment or delay." Id. § 11.102(a) (West Supp. 2011). Relator is on the list of vexatious litigants compiled by the Office of the Court Administration of the Texas Judicial System, and he has been prohibited from filing any more litigation in Texas courts without permission of a local administrative judge.

2 id. § 11.104 (West Supp. 2011); see generally <http://www.txcourts.gov/oca/vexatiouslitigants.asp>. The petition for writ of mandamus filed in this cause fails to show that relator obtained the permission of the local administrative judge to file this original proceeding. With limited exceptions not applicable to this case, "a clerk of a court may not file a litigation, original proceeding, appeal, or other claim presented by a vexatious litigant subject to a prefiling order under Section 11.101 unless the litigant obtains an order from the local administrative judge permitting the filing."

Id. § 11.103(a) (West Supp. 2011). Accordingly, we dismiss this original proceeding as improvidently filed. PER CURIAM Delivered and filed this 15th day of January, 2013. 3
