OPINION

PER CURIAM.

In the Court of Appeals Sixth Appellate District of Texas at Texarkana No. 06-25-00130-CR CHAD RUSSELL GEORGE, Appellant V. THE STATE OF TEXAS, Appellee On Appeal from the 6th District Court Red River County, Texas Trial Court No. CR03481 Before Stevens, C.J., van Cleef and Rambin, JJ. Memorandum Opinion by Justice Rambin MEMORANDUM OPINION Chad Russell George was placed on community supervision pursuant to a plea agreement in three separate cause numbers—one charge of injury to a child, for which he was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment, and two separate charges of endangering a child, for which he was sentenced to two years' imprisonment on each charge.¹ The trial court suspended George's sentences and placed him on community supervision for a period of ten years for the first charge and a period of five years for the two separate charges.

The State subsequently moved to revoke George's community supervision and sought adjudication, alleging, as to his charge of endangering a child, that George failed to pay required fees and fines, and failed to report for the months of January, February, and March of 2025. George pled true to the first allegation and partially true to the second.

After a hearing on the State's motion to revoke, the trial court found allegation two to be true as to George's failure to report in February and March, revoked George's community supervision, adjudicated his guilt, and sentenced him to two years imprisonment for endangering a child. George appeals. George's attorney has filed a brief stating that he reviewed the record and found no genuinely arguable issues that could be raised on appeal.

The brief sets out the procedural history of the case and summarizes the evidence elicited during the course of the trial court proceedings. Since counsel has provided a professional evaluation of the record demonstrating why there are no arguable grounds to be advanced, that evaluation meets the requirements of 1 This appellate cause number addresses a charge of endangering a child, trial court cause number CR03481.
