

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, APPELLATE DIVISION, FOURTH JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT

Poreba-Gier v. Suddaby

2022 NY Slip Op 01931 (App. Div. 2022) · No. 272 CA 21-00305 · Decided March 18, 2022

SUMMARY

The New York Appellate Division, Fourth Department, affirmed an order granting the defendant physician leave to renew his summary judgment motion and dismissing a medical malpractice and lack of informed consent action. The court held that the defendant established that any lack of informed consent was not a proximate cause of the plaintiff's injuries and that the plaintiffs failed to raise a triable issue of fact.

CASE DETAILS

COURT	Supreme Court of the State of New York, Appellate Division, Fourth Judicial Department
WRITING FOR THE COURT	Centra, J.P.; Peradotto, J.; Lindley, J.; Nemoyer, J.; Curran, J.
JURISDICTION	New York
DECIDED	March 18, 2022
DOCKET	272 CA 21-00305
DISPOSITION	affirmed
PROCEDURAL POSTURE	Plaintiffs appealed from an order granting defendant leave to renew his motion for summary judgment, granting summary judgment upon renewal, and dismissing the complaint in a medical malpractice and lack-of-informed-consent action.
STANDARD OF REVIEW	Summary judgment is proper where the movant establishes entitlement to judgment as a matter of law and the opposing party fails to raise a triable issue of fact. On a lack-of-informed-consent claim, the plaintiff must establish that the lack of consent was a proximate cause of the injury.
PRECEDENTIAL VALUE	Published opinion of the Appellate Division, Fourth Department; precedential under New York law.
PARTIES	Jeanette Poreba-Gier, Joseph R. Gier v. Loubert S. Suddaby, M.D.

TOPICS

informed consent

medical malpractice

summary judgment

standard of review

appellate procedure

PRACTICE AREAS

medical malpractice

informed consent

summary judgment

civil procedure

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

1. Whether defendant was entitled to summary judgment dismissing the lack-of-informed-consent cause of action because the alleged lack of informed consent was not a proximate cause of any injury.
2. Whether plaintiffs raised a triable issue of fact in opposition to defendant's renewed motion for summary judgment.

HOLDINGS

1. A lack-of-informed-consent claim fails when the actual procedure performed was not a proximate cause of the plaintiff's injury. Defendant established that plaintiff sustained no injury from the paddle-lead-stimulator implantation and that her later pain resulted from her underlying back condition, not the surgery.
2. Plaintiffs failed to raise a triable issue of fact in opposition to defendant's showing that the procedure caused no injury; summary judgment dismissing the complaint was therefore proper.

KEY QUOTATIONS

*“'To establish a cause of action for malpractice based on lack of informed consent, [a] plaintiff must prove (1) that the person providing the professional treatment failed to disclose alternatives thereto and failed to inform the patient of reasonably foreseeable risks associated with the treatment, and the alternatives, that a reasonable medical practitioner would have disclosed in the same circumstances, (2) that a reasonably prudent patient in the same position would not have undergone the treatment if he or she had been fully informed, and (3) that the lack of informed consent is a proximate cause of the injury'” (1)

*“The proximate cause element “is construed to mean that the actual procedure performed for which there was no informed consent must have been a proximate cause of the injury”” (1)

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Defendant inserted a paddle lead stimulator in plaintiff Jeanette Poreba-Gier's spine to provide pain relief. The treatment provided temporary pain relief and did not cause or aggravate an injury or plaintiff's presurgical symptoms. The later pain experienced by plaintiff resulted from her disabling back condition rather than from the implantation surgery.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Plaintiffs commenced an action alleging medical malpractice and lack of informed consent arising from defendant's insertion of a paddle lead stimulator in Jeanette Poreba-Gier's spine. Supreme Court granted summary judgment dismissing the medical malpractice claim but denied it as to informed consent. After additional discovery, Supreme Court granted defendant leave to renew and, upon renewal, granted summary judgment on the informed-consent claim and dismissed the complaint. The Appellate Division unanimously affirmed without costs.

DISPOSITION

affirmed

CASES CITED

- Huichun Feng v. Accord Physicians, PLLC, 194 AD3d 795, 797 (2d Dept 2021)
- Trabal v. Queens Surgi-Center, 8 AD3d 555, 556-557 (2d Dept 2004)
- Evart v. Park Ave. Chiropractic, P.C., 86 AD3d 442, 443 (1st Dept 2011), lv denied 17 NY3d 922 (2011)
- Keller v. Liberatore, 134 AD3d 1495, 1497 (4th Dept 2015)
- Tsimbler v. Fell, 123 AD3d 1009, 1010-1011 (2d Dept 2014)
- Flores v. Flushing Hosp. & Med. Ctr., 109 AD2d 198, 200-201 (1st Dept 1985)
- Gilmore v. Mihail, 174 AD3d 686, 688 (2d Dept 2019)
- Graziano v. Cooling, 79 AD3d 803, 804-805 (2d Dept 2010)
- Amodio v. Wolpert, 52 AD3d 1078, 1080 (3d Dept 2008)